State Announces Storm Aid In Amount of $1.3 Million

Acting Governor and State Senate President Donald T. DiFrancesco of Scotch Plains last week announced a storm aid package that provides about $1.3 million to more than a dozen communities in Union, Middlesex and Somerset Counties to help pay for clean-up costs.

Senator DiFrancesco said he recognizes that all towns prepare for this kind of emergency, but few have the financial resources available to easily absorb the significant expenses generated by such a violent and unexpected weather event.

"I know the tremendous toll this storm took on so many residents of Union, Middlesex and Somerset Counties," said DiFrancesco, a Republican representing the 22nd Legislative District, during a press conference at the Cranford Municipal Building.

"Many of us experienced the damage and inconvenience first-hand. Not as publicized, however, is the strain that the response and clean-up effort took on individual municipalities who spent countless hours and money on removing debris and controlling traffic," he continued.

"Property taxpayers in these communities should not be made to pick up these costs," the senator added. "In emergency cases like this one, the state

School Board Examines Activities Involved in District's Strategic Plan

By MICHELLE H. LePODEVIN

The Westfield Board of Education met on Tuesday to revisit the Strategic Plan and discuss specific highlights of the activities for this year that are related to the Plan.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. William J. Foley provided an evaluation of these goals and objectives during his report.

Dr. Foley began his report by distributing to board members specially printed copies of the Strategic Plan's Mission Statement encased in plastic frames.

"The mission of the Westfield

School District, a system built on successful cooperation among family, school and community, is to prepare all students to achieve excellence and to become responsible citizens through rigorous educational programs which respect individual differences and diversity," the statement read.

Regarding the goals and objectives under the Plan, Dr. Foley noted, "What is key here is cooperation, community and excellence that makes our school system unique." Furthermore, he said, "This is always done with a great deal of care and commitment from the community."

To satisfy Strategy No. 1 of the Plan, "We will ensure faculty and staff excellence," Dr. Foley cited the Westfield Teachers Institute as one activity slated for the school year. He noted that the Institute would deal with the "complexity of teaching a heterogeneous population."

He stated that several new teachers are hired each year and the Institute would follow new State requirements that require 100 hours of in-service training by teachers over a five-year period.

The goal, he added, is to develop training that would blend course work, classroom training and supervision. The Institute would be tailored to the needs of Westfield and developed over several years, providing strong support for teacher training.

He noted that he hopes such a course would be implemented by September of next year.

Board Member Annmarie Puleio said it was important to involve school administrators and principals in the Institute training.

Under Strategy No. 2 of the Plan, "We will integrate technology into the curriculum at all grade levels," Dr. Foley explained that computer hardware and software must be available in classrooms and students should learn computer skills at younger ages.

Research activities on the Internet would be beneficial, he said, since employers and colleges now assume students have these computer skills by graduation from high school.

The goal, he said, is to incorporate technology at all grades levels into curriculums and that computer knowledge and skills would eventually become a requirement for graduation.

Under Strategy No. 3 of the Plan, "We will set clear and high expectations for students of all levels of ability," Dr. Foley stated he would address the talented and gifted students program at the intermediate schools.

The goal, he added, would be to explore options to support gifted students in all areas of study.

He later said, "Children have different kinds of talents and we need to find ways to express that through different levels."

Under Strategy No. 7 of the Plan, "We will provide mandatory staff development programs and address issues of diversity," Dr. Foley explained that a "Teaching Tolerance" program would be required to alert teachers to differences and similarities in society.

The goals include the use of different methods to involve students in school and district programs in order to develop tolerance.

Dr. Foley added that it would be helpful to implement this training in the Teacher's Institute.

Mrs. Puleio explained, "Responsibility and diversity are a way of life. We should train people to be tolerant of differences, not to prejudice."

Board Member Dr. B. Carol Molnar added, "Our children learn what they live." She stated that it would be more beneficial to have students interact with different groups in the community to learn tolerance, in-

DWC Introduces Plans for Welcoming Signs At Borders With Neighboring Communities

By PAUL J. PEYTON
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

In an effort to welcome visitors to the Town of Westfield, Downtown Westfield Corporation (DWC) officials Tuesday night unveiled plans to place 12, one-sided Westfield identification signs on borders with surrounding communities.

The signs, costing nearly $2,000 each for a total of $24,000, would be delivered to the town in two shipments. Michael LaPlace, Executive Director of the DWC, told The Westfield Leader that the signs could be funded through the governing body's capital budget or through private sponsorships.

Unlike a proposal submitted to the council last year, the welcome signs would not contain any plaque below the sign for sponsorships, as has been the case in other towns.

Mr. LaPlace noted the signs will be simple and feature a "classic" look that will represent and reinforce the historic, upscale image of Westfield. The signs will be distinctive both in design and from signs in surrounding communities.

The slate blue enamel signs, two feet in height, are an inch and a half thick and will be placed seven feet off the ground.

Mr. LaPlace said the entrance signs will complement other new signs which are planned to identify parking lots in the downtown, as well as the downtown itself. DWC banners are already displayed on posts in the business district.

The signs are proposed for the Lawrence Avenue and Mountain Avenue borders with Mountaintside; the Springfield Avenue, West border with Springfield; Brightwood Avenue at the Scotch Plains border; Springfield Avenue, East and Gallows Hill Road at Cranford; the North Avenue and South Avenue borders with Scotch Plains and Cranford; the West Broad Street and Lamberts Mill Road borders with Scotch Plains; the Rahway Avenue and Central Avenue borders with Clark, and the Raritan Road boundary with Scotch Plains.

Blast at South Side Bagelry Closes Shop

By JEANNE WHITNEY

An early morning explosion in a bagel shop on Westfield's south side near the train station last Thursday resulted in one employee injury and damage to the shop when the baker tried to light a large gas commercial oven.

According to Westfield Fire Department officials, the baker at Manhattan Bagel Company who is reportedly called Nick, was burned on the right arm and face from the explosion. Initially, the injured employee refused to seek medical help but later was treated for blistering burns at a local hospital and released.

Store Manager Richard Komissa said the franchise store would not be open for another month, when repairs are finished. Evidently, two doors blew out in the blast. Mr. Komissa said they would replace the oven with another one.

Fire officials said there was no sustained fire at the site, however, the Union County Arson Task Force investigated although nothing has been confirmed at this time. The Westfield Police and Elizabethtown Gas also investigated the site.

Mr. Komissa said he has not been able to sleep since the incident, thinking of how dangerously close his baker was to more serious injury.

The signs would include the DWC's signature "W," at the top, as seen throughout the downtown, along with "Westfield 1720."

In a letter from Mr. LaPlace to former Town Historian Homer Hall, he noted that "1720" represents the year when Westfield became a permanent settlement and, thus, includes the Revolutionary War era "which is such an important aspect of this town's history and character."

Hastings Signs of Pittstown, Pennsylvania, have given an estimate to the DWC regarding the proposed signs. The company, which did the signs for Mindowaskin Park, has told the DWC the new signs would be hand-carved.

Joseph Spector, Chairman of the DWC Board of Directors, explained that an early criticism of last year's proposal by a private sign maker was that there were too many signs included in the proposal. So he said the DWC has attempted not to "overdo" the number of locations where signs would be installed.

In discussing the DWC's 1999 budget, Mr. Spector noted that improving services in the downtown will be among those projects included in the spending plan. Among them

Mayor Jardim Dismisses His Campaign Manager

Just weeks after an uproar by supporters of his Republican opponent, First Ward Councilwoman Gail S. Vernick, over a telephone poll conducted on his behalf, Mayor Thomas C. Jardim announced Friday night that Ken Rotter, who had been serving as his campaign manager, was no longer associated with the campaign.

The Mayor indicated that he did not need anyone speaking on his behalf. Mr. Rotter ran unsuccessfully last year against Republican Neil F. Sullivan, Jr., in the race for the Third Ward seat on the Town Council. A letter-writing frenzy was launched against the Mayor and the Democrats when it was revealed that the poll included a charge that Mrs. Vernick's husband, Dr. Harris Vernick, was a member of the National Rifle Association. Several letters this week were received supporting the Mayor in this matter.

Dr. Vernick strongly denied the charge, as did Republican leaders, saying the allegation was made to

Federal Budget Pours $9.9 Million Into Area Flood Control Measures

By JEANNE WHITNEY
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

After a year of debate, $9.9 million in Federal funds towards a flood control construction project in parts of Middlesex and Somerset counties was okayed by the President and the United States Congress as part of the water resources package for the 1999 budget.

It was signed into law on October 7. According to Chairman of the Green Brook Flood Control Commission Vernon A. Noble, who has been pursuing the United States Army Corps of Engineers project to stem costly and life-threatening flooding in the Green Brook Basin over the past 26 years, said in a written statement, "The Commission plans to celebrate, but not to relax.

"The Commission is never going to relax until the last piece of the project is completed along about the year 2011."

The Army Corps (New York District) project to control flooding has three construction phases, including proposed storm water detention basins upstream in the Watchung Mountains, which is the final phase. Last year, some Union County residents and officials shot down Federal funding for the basins when they opposed the use of several acres in the county-owned Watchung Reservation for the catch basins.

The $9.9 million will cover work only for phases one and two, downstream.

Frank Meeks, Commission member and coordinator of a task force to find alternative sites for the disputed detention basins in the so-called Upper Portion of the plan, said work would begin in the western end of Middlesex Borough where houses would be "floodproofed" by raising them. A bridge in Bound Brook would also be raised above flood levels.

The State of New Jersey will ultimately fund one-quarter of the $371 million project, with Federal funds picking up the other three-quarters.

Mr. Noble said the Army Corps will now take bids on work for the project and get the state permits it needs to being construction by early next year.

"The work is going to keep getting harder and harder (for the Commission.) We want to be number one, of the Corps of Engineers' projects," Mr. Noble stated.

Meanwhile, the Commission's

Board of Adjustment Approves Four Appeals; Others Postponed

By KIMBERLY A. BROADWELL
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

Only four of seven appeals that were scheduled for Monday night's Westfield Board of Adjustment meeting were heard.

Elliot Budashewitz of 920 Summit Avenue requested that his case be carried over to the board's meeting of Monday, November 9.

Donald A. Fishbein of 314 Scotch Plains Avenue also asked that his appeal be heard at the November meeting.

Dani Holder of 1150 Central Avenue, who was not present that evening, will also have to reschedule her appeal.

Other applications scheduled for November 9 include those of Prudential New Jersey Realty, which has an office at 153 Mountain Avenue, and Michael Moran of 418 Westfield Avenue.

The board approved an appeal by Dr. Robert Panza, who maintains a pediatric practice in a three-story home at 566 Westfield Avenue. He sought permission to use the third floor of the home as a rental apartment.

Dr. Panza said he presently has no one in mind to rent the small one-bedroom apartment, which he testified "has to be completely renovated."

According to the physician, the space, which is presently used for storage, needs to be updated with kitchen and bathroom facilities.

The only stipulations made by board members were that Dr. Panza limit the number of full-time physicians practicing at that location to two, which is the current number there now.

Dr. Panza noted that the first floor of the home is used for examining rooms, while the second floor comprises a billing office and private offices for him and his associate.

Zbigniew and Andrea M. Kozlowski, who live at 8-A Route No. 22, successfully petitioned the board for permission to erect an addition to their home, which was built in 1988.

Bettye and Stephen Barcan of 838 Standish Avenue were given the green light by the board to enlarge their back porch.

The proposed 13.67-foot side yard setback which would result from the addition was contrary to the required 15-foot interior side yard distance required by the municipality.

Rita and Dennis Wade of 365 Wychwood Road received permission to add a second story onto their garage.

This addition will give the family a fifth bedroom.

Mr. Wade told the board that he was unaware that the garage was in violation of the town's interior sideyard ruling of 15 feet when he bought the house. Currently, Mr. Wade's sideyard is only set back 10.2 feet.

Finally, an extension on a variance that was approved in June was requested by Dave Patterson from Westfield Hall, Inc. Mr. Patterson testified that he needed the extension because he was having a problem with his architect midway through the project.

The board granted Mr. Patterson an extension which will extend his deadline to submit permits until Friday, April 30.

stead of teaching tolerance through lecturing.

Under Strategy No. 6 of the Plan, "We will provide counseling services K-12," Dr. Foley emphasized the need for counseling programs at the elementary level. He stated that the elementary schools in the district are the largest they have been in 20 years and referral rates for learning and social disorders are at a peak.

Under Strategy No. 10 of the Plan, "We will ensure meaningful and involved participation by community and business in the education of all students by the year 2000," Dr. Foley stated that the new core curriculum requires concrete school-to-work experiences.

Community service projects and on the job training with local businesses and corporations would be included in this school-to-work objective.

Dr. Foley explained that it would be valuable to develop a formal structure for Westfield Inter-community Service Program in order to accomplish this goal. He added that it would require outside funding.

As a member of the Westfield Rotary Club and Optimists Club, Dr. Foley expressed an ability to help in this capacity by communicating with representatives from companies such as Merck & Co., Inc., and Lucent Technologies.

Under Strategy No. 11, "We will ensure adequate space for increasing enrollments on an annual basis," Dr. Foley explained that the continuing enrollment crisis would be best addressed if the bond was approved, thus allowing for the building of new classrooms.

The board will meet on Tuesday, November 10, to approve a formal version of plans, activities and goals under the Strategic Plan. Dr. Foley promised board members that several issues would be revisited before the meeting.

"We're just scratching the surface," he stated.

The Facilities Committee reported that the lease has been signed with the town for a playground at Lincoln School. Board President Danielle M. Walsh noted that the board and public would be notified when the Town and Recreation Department purchased new equipment for the playground.

Mrs. Puleio reported that the Long Range Planning Committee would meet with Dr. Foley to examine what she described as the enrollment crisis at the intermediate and high school levels.

In Curriculum, Instruction and Programs, Vice President Ginger L. Hardwick noted that copies of the 1997-1998 Quality Assurance Annual Report (QAAR) will be available in each school, the Office of Instruction, the Office of Elementary Education and Assessment and the Superintendent's Office at 302 Elm Street.

The QAAR report details the objectives of each school's principals and administrators. Most of the goals span a period of two years.

For example, at Westfield High School, comprehensive proficiencies are being developed and a program of 10 to 11 students of Japanese TV Studio continues to flourish.

At Roosevelt Intermediate School, the scholars program continues and social studies and current events are stressed. At Edison Intermediate School, current events are also emphasized as well as devotion to writing and research papers. At Franklin Elementary School, the Elementary School Proficiency Assessment (ESPA) continues.

At McKinley Elementary School, alternative plans are being developed to aid students who are struggling with math and reading instruction. At Washington Elementary School, reading comprehension, ESPA, and public speaking instruction are a main focus.

At Wilson Elementary School, students are focused on taking an interest in technology. At Tamaques Elementary School, the automated library system and Junior Grade Book comprehension are currently being addressed.

As a special request from board members who wanted time to evaluate the goals under the QAAR, Dr. Foley concluded that he would hold a special public meeting in January of 1999 with board members and school principals.

discredit Mrs. Vernick as a candidate for Mayor.

During a tense Town Council meeting earlier this month, the Mayor maintained that he had not seen the final version of questions in the poll. He also noted that Republicans had sent out a highly negative campaign piece last year aimed at him, even though he was not a candidate in 1997.

At Tuesday night's council meeting, Councilman Sullivan questioned whether Mr. Rotter should be removed from two other voluntary positions he holds with the town.

machine, which will be used to clean up debris in the downtown including parking lots.

Mr. Spector also noted that the DWC is looking at privatizing trash pickup for downtown receptacles, thus enabling Department of Public Works employees, who currently provide the service, to perform other functions such as filling potholes.

Both projects would involve a combination of town and DWC funding.

On another matter, the council was advised by Town Attorney Charles H. Brandt of a discrepancy between properties included in the special improvement district and those receiving bills the past year from the town.

Mr. Brandt noted that, when the ordinance creating the SID was adopted in 1996, it was accompanied by a map designating all properties to be taxed within the district.

Mayor Jardim Dismisses His Campaign Manager

Lawrence A. Goldman, who chairs the Westfield Democratic Committee, responded that Mr. Sullivan was introducing for discussion a political matter "that has nothing to do with how this town is governed."

Fellow Democrat John J. Walsh, who represents the Third Ward on the council, said the matter should be placed on the governing body's agenda before any further discussion takes place.

He said the council should have the opportunity to be prepared to discuss such a matter before it is raised during an agenda meeting.

Mr. Sullivan then requested that the matter be put on the council's agenda.

Mayor Jardim, Westfield's first Democratic Mayor since 1912, is seeking reelection against Mrs. Vernick.

Capital Commission Reelects Carol Molnar For Chair Position

WESTFIELD - B. Carol Molnar has been reappointed as Chairwoman of the New Jersey Capital Budgeting and Planning Commission. In 1994, Governor Christie Todd Whitman had originally appointed Ms. Molnar as Chairwoman of the Commission.

Subsequent appointments now require approval of the Commission members which include the State Treasurer's Office, four legislators, and four public members.

As Chairwoman of the Commission, Ms. Molnar also serves as a member of the New Jersey Building Authority.

The Commission was created by the Legislature to act in an advisory role to the Governor and the Legislature. The Commission is responsible for reviewing all proposed capital expenditure programs for the state and approving the inclusion of any bond referendum on the general election ballot.

Because of its success, other states have used New Jersey's Commission as the model for developing their own capital commissions.

For the fiscal year ending 1999, the Commission recommended $865 million in capital spending projects from the state's General Funds and an appropriation of $512 million to the Transportation Trust Fund.

Locally, Ms. Molnar has been active in the Westfield community for many years. She has been a member of the Westfield Board of Education since 1988.

She is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Youth and Family Counseling Service, the Westfield Community Center, the Martin Luther King Association, and the Friends of Mindowaskin Park.

She has two children, Amy and Meg, who are presently attending the Westfield Public Schools.

State Announces Storm Aid In Amount of $1.3 Million

Acting Governor and State Senate President Donald T. DiFrancesco of Scotch Plains last week announced a storm aid package that provides about $1.3 million to more than a dozen communities in Union, Middlesex and Somerset Counties to help pay for clean-up costs.

Senator DiFrancesco said he recognizes that all towns prepare for this kind of emergency, but few have the financial resources available to easily absorb the significant expenses generated by such a violent and unexpected weather event.

"I know the tremendous toll this storm took on so many residents of Union, Middlesex and Somerset Counties," said DiFrancesco, a Republican representing the 22nd Legislative District, during a press conference at the Cranford Municipal Building.

"Many of us experienced the damage and inconvenience first-hand. Not as publicized, however, is the strain that the response and clean-up effort took on individual municipalities who spent countless hours and money on removing debris and controlling traffic," he continued.

"Property taxpayers in these communities should not be made to pick up these costs," the senator added. "In emergency cases like this one, the state

SP Township Begins Budget Process Puzzle; Officials Say Celebrate Halloween Next Friday

By JEANNE WHITNEY
Specially Written for The Times

As Scotch Plains Township department and division heads begin crunching numbers for next year's municipal budget, Municipal Manager Thomas E. Atkins told Council members Tuesday, "It will be a real challenge."

Mr. Atkins let the Council know that cleanup from the Labor Day storm this September will carry over into next year, causing a financial burden.

Labor costs and equipment rental resulted in a $240,000 emergency appropriation by the council.

The township got notice last week that $55,000 in funding from the state will supplement the township's emergency expenses.

In a memo, Mr. Atkins asked township officials to submit budget requests to him by Monday, November 23. Traditionally, in the township form of government, the municipal manager or other administrator prepares an annual budget with input from departments, which is later reviewed and put to a vote by the Council. A public hearing on the budget is held, however in the past, few if any residents turn out to be part of the decision-making process on approximately $16 million worth of municipal spending.

The same Atkins memo states he will be looking at PBA arbitration, other labor negotiations, insurance rates, sewerage system fees and capital budget projects in addition to the emergency appropriation when he formulates the 1999 budget.

The budget year for the township government runs from January through the calendar year.

In a different letter to the Council, Mr. Atkins stated, "Capital budgeting challenges will continue to be great next year and into the twenty-first century." Capital projects may include maintenance and updating of elements that contribute to the running of the township, like roads, sewers systems, public buildings and computer systems.

For example, the municipality is currently wading through a $1.7 million sewer pumping station upgrade

Bus Stop Ordinance is Introduced; Pending Sidewalk Repairs Discussed

By SUZETTE F. STALKER

The Fanwood Borough Council addressed a broad range of topics during last Thursday's regular meeting, while also recognizing several organizations and events for their impact locally or on a national level.

Mayor Maryanne S. Connelly announced that the borough had been approved for $96,500 through the state Department of Transportation's Trust Fund Discretionary Aid Program. The funds will help defray costs involved in the community's recovery from the Labor Day storm which cut a devastating swath through Union County.

Fanwood was among the towns hardest hit by the weather emergency, which toppled numerous trees, damaged homes and cars, and knocked out power to most of the municipality.

Under other business, an ordinance was introduced on first reading to formally designate four bus stops in each direction along both South and Midway Avenues, for a total of 16. An additional stop is earmarked for the intersection of South Avenue and Terrill Road. One already exists on the Plainfield side.

Busses currently stop at various points along South and Midway, according to Fanwood Police Chief Robert Carboy, who told The Times the designated locations will basically remain the same as the informal ones under the new ordinance, though busses are not expected to stop at all the corners they do now. The revised stops are expected to help eliminate parking problems in the area, Chief Carboy said.

He added that the regulated stops were determined through a partnership with NJ Transit and will be marked by identification signs.

Besides the intersection with Terrill, busses will stop along South Avenue at Hetfield and Martine Avenues, as well as Staggard Place. On Midway Avenue, busses will stop at Terrill Road, Martine Avenue, Forest Road and Shasta Pass, the chief confirmed.

The governing body also approved resolutions amending the municipal budget to reflect a $125,000 matching grant which Fanwood received from the county under its Project Pocket Park Program, as well as state and Federal grant money, totaling

Federal Budget Pours $9.9 Million Into Area Flood Control Measures

By JEANNE WHITNEY
Specially Written for The Times

After a year of debate, $9.9 million in Federal funds towards a flood control construction project in parts of Middlesex and Somerset counties was okayed by the President and the United States Congress as part of the water resources package for the 1999 budget.

It was signed into law on October 7. According to Chairman of the Green Brook Flood Control Commission Vernon A. Noble, who has been pursuing the United States Army Corps of Engineers project to stem costly and life-threatening flooding in the Green Brook Basin over the past 26 years, said in a written statement, "The Commission plans to celebrate, but not to relax."

"The Commission is never going to relax until the last piece of the project is completed along about the year 2011."

The Army Corps (New York District) project to control flooding has three construction phases, including proposed storm water detention basins upstream in the Watchung Mountains, which is the final phase. Last year, some Union County residents and officials shot down Federal funding for the basins when they opposed the use of several acres in the county-owned Watchung Reservation for the catch basins.

The $9.9 million will cover work only for phases one and two, downstream.

Frank Meeks, Commission member and coordinator of a task force to find alternative sites for the disputed detention basins in the so-called Upper Portion of the plan, said work would begin in the western end of Middlesex Borough where houses would be "floodproofed" by raising them. A bridge in Bound Brook would also be raised above flood levels.

The State of New Jersey will ultimately fund one-quarter of the $371 million project, with Federal funds picking up the other three-quarters.

Mr. Noble said the Army Corps will now take bids on work for the project and get the state permits it needs to being construction by early next year.

"The work is going to keep getting harder and harder (for the Commission.) We want to be number one, of the Corps of Engineers' projects," Mr. Noble stated.

Meanwhile, the Commission's Task Force is expected to turn over a report to the Army Corps by mid-November that will propose alternate detention basins in Weldon Materials, Inc., quarry and in the Board of Adjustment Approves Variances For Storage Building on Waldheim Avenue

By BOBBIE BALDASSARI TURI
Specially Written for The Times

In a unanimous vote, the Scotch Plains Board of Adjustment awarded two variances October 8 to a local businessman who is seeking to erect a contractors' storage building at 2378 Waldheim Avenue.

Applicant Dion Natale, a residential plumber, provided the board with a site plan for the planned building, which will be equipped with a garage area. The proposal drew opposition from neighbors of the site who believe commercial activity at the building will aggravate existing problems on the street.

One of the variances sought by Mr. Natale was for a residential apartment (approximately 750 square feet) on the second floor of the proposed building, which is located in an M-1 industrial zone.

The applicant testified that he plans to use the rent from the apartment to pay for taxes on the building. The other variance permits Mr. Natale to construct the building on a pre-existing undersized lot.

The applicant plans to use the first floor of the pending building for storage of supplies and equipment such as pipes and water heaters. He purchased the lot in July of 1997 for $50,000, and has already razed a single-family residence which previously stood on the property.

Mr. Natale testified that he plans to comply with all local ordinances and codes requested by the board, dealing with issues such as parking, buffering, easements, retaining walls, landscaping and fire safety.

In attendance at the meeting were several neighbors, mostly from Concord Row, who vehemently complained that businesses along Waldheim Avenue have had a highly negative impact on the area in which they live.

They cited increased noise disturbances, odor emissions from dumping, truck exhaust, intrusive headlights and exterior building lights which remain lit through the night as factors affecting their quality of life.

Homeowner Scott Rodgers, an attorney, acted as a representative for the Concord Row residents. He also appeared at several earlier board meetings to present fellow residents' concerns over an increase in the commercial activity on Waldheim Avenue.

Mr. Rodgers, who questioned the applicant and the board at length, asked Mr. Natale, "are you aware that local ordinance specifically prohibits residential use on the lot you purchased?"

Mr. Natale responded that he did, stating "that is why we are here tonight to request a variance."

When Mr. Rodgers asked the applicant if he agreed there were problems caused by odors from dumping and extensive noise during early morning hours from heavy equipment use, Mr. Natale replied, "Yes, but no one has complained to me."

The attorney then showed the board and the applicant some photographs of Mr. Natale's lot, which a neighboring business, A-1 Tree Service, has been using temporarily since the previous structure on the property was demolished. Neighbors have complained that the lot has become cluttered with litter and debris.

"Are you aware of various zoning regulations that apply to your lot in connection with allowing people to use your lot for commercial uses?" Mr. Rodgers asked the applicant, to which Mr. Natale responded, "No, I am not aware."

Mr. Rodgers argued that Mr. Natale's application was premature and that the latter should present a site plan for the present activities on his property, meaning commercial use of the lot by A-1 Tree Service.

He also maintained that "this application is for mixed use — residential and commercial. If one is denied by the board, so should the other.

"The applicant is not fulfilling the zone plan and he shows no economic impact," Mr. Rodgers said. "Frankly, as Mr. Natale stated earlier this evening, he will be using the proposed apartment on the second floor to pay for the building."

A few other Concord Row residents were also given the opportunity to state their opinions on the proposal. "We just want to be sure the applicant adheres to the M-1 zoning; town code limitations should be abided by," stated Jim Ciccarino.

He also said an apartment on the second floor may draw a noisy, disruptive tenant."

Other neighbors expressed concern about what they have described as a noise problem in the area. "Waldheim Avenue is atrocious," stated Dorothy McGrath, a 19-year Concord Row resident.

James R. Watson and John P. Dupont from EKA Associates, a Scotch Plains firm of licensed engineers, planners and surveyors, ap-

$56,000, which will facilitate automation of the Fanwood Memorial Library. The grant money for the library is administered through the New Jersey State Library.

Several residents spoke on various topics during the public portion of the meeting. David Pickering, Chairman of the borough's Community Assessment Committee and a former Councilman, presented a proposal made earlier by Fanwood Rescue Squad Captain Sue Davis that tax breaks be granted to those willing to volunteer with local emergency service units.

Four action groups involving approximately 35 people were recently formed by the Assessment Committee to develop improvement strategies for the borough in the areas of communications, downtown and parking, long-range planning and volunteerism. Mrs. Davis is a member of the group on volunteerism.

On another topic, Mr. Pickering lamented the absence of a debate this year among the four candidates for Borough Council. Calling it a "terrible mistake," he said it was vital for people "to hear the opinions and thoughts of everyone who is running."

Mayor Connelly, who is herself challenging Congressman Robert Franks for the Seventh District seat this year, expressed support for the debate format.

Wilfred P. Coronato, one of two Republican candidates for council this year, addressed the governing body concerning sidewalk problems in the municipality. He asked if a determination had been made as to whether the borough or residents would be responsible for sidewalk repairs.

Mayor Connelly revealed that a survey of local sidewalks was 85 percent complete, adding that problems were being classified according to severity. She said officials wanted to analyze existing problems before deciding how the costs would be borne.

Officials tabled a vote on adopting a change to the by-laws of the Mayor and council until their regular meeting of Thursday, November 12, after Council President Bruce H. Walsh expressed reservations concerning whether the proposed revisions would fulfill their intended purpose.

Members of the governing body are expected to discuss the matter, which revolves around council representatives' right to abstain from a vote, at their next agenda meeting on Wednesday, November 4.

Councilman Louis C. Jung advised residents that, contrary to a press release which appeared in another area newspaper, there is no charge for wood chips at the Recycling Center on North Avenue.

Wood chips may be picked up between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Wednesdays and Saturdays at the center. Center personnel will also deliver a truck load or that approximate amount to Fanwood residents upon request, according to Director of Public Works Raymond Manfra.

The center currently has an abundance of wood chips generated by fallen trees from last month's storm. Area landscapers are also invited to take advantage of the offer. Interested individuals may call Mr. Manfra at (908) 322-7404 for further information.

At the outset of the meeting, the Mayor revealed that members of a borough Millennium Committee would be announced next month. She also issued seven proclamations. Three of them decreed October as National Literacy Month, Breast Cancer Awareness Month and National Arts and Humanities Month.

The other four proclamations recognized the 65th anniversary of the College Club of Fanwood-Scotch Plains; the YWCA of Plainfield-North Plainfield's "Week Without Violence" from October 18 to 24; Fire Prevention Week from October 4 to 10, and November as National Epilepsy Month in Fanwood.

International Student Seeks Host Family

Due to special circumstances, Youth For Understanding (YFU) needs to find a new host family for Anar Akperov, a student from Azerbaijan in the former Soviet Union, who is studying in the United States.

According to local YFU representatives Ellie and Jim Kullman, Anar is very serious about continuing his experience in this country. He is on the varsity soccer team at his current high school.

He is presently in the United States through the joint sponsorship of YFU and the Freedom Support Act (FSA), according to the Kullmans.

Anar has received the Future Leaders Exchange Scholarship, which was initiated by former Senator Bill Bradley. He requires a new host family for the remainder of the school year, through June of 1999.

For further information, please call the Kullmans at (908) 233-8042 or YFU's regional office at 1-800-872-0200. YFU reported that there are also a few other students in need of homes.

Like the music man says, there's trouble right here in River City.

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood school district Music Department "is in great need of supplemental funds to replace instruments that are in disrepair and purchase basic music education materials," according to Carolyn Sorge, a member of the newly formed district-wide Music Boosters Association.

The public schools need pianos, brass wind instruments and performance risers; chorus and instrumental groups need costumes for performances; music instruction rooms need soundproofing; and stages need a sound shell.

"If we can't continue to maintain or improve the [music department] program, then through apathy, the program will suffer and diminish," says the SP-F Schools Music Boosters Association President, Dan Mazzagetti. "And students could find other ways to spend their Friday and Saturday evenings, that may not be so positive," he added.

That sounds like trouble in River City.

According to Boosters, alumni, district-wide supporters and beyond, have joined together to raise $200,000 for the district music department over the next two years.

"This [fundraising] is for the district, but the need is really at the younger grades," Mr. Mazzagetti claimed. He said the district Boosters are not part of the high school boosters or other schools' booster groups.

Reportedly, nearly 45 percent of walls, picketing teachers, canceled 'Back To School Nights,' and forcing closure of the schools on Election and Veterans Days are all tactics which hurt students.

"With these actions, your organization sends the message to children that the educational needs of students are secondary to the teachers' fiscal demands," the letter stated.

When asked to comment on the letters, Mrs. McGuane said, "It's really a form letter. If parents look to see what's happening in the classroom, we're doing our job and children are happy. The only major job action has been not coming to 'Back to School Night.'"

Parents are disappointed by the pseudo-"Back to School Nights" constructed by principals and curriculum supervisors. They regret the lost opportunity to speak with teachers and to see and hear them in their classrooms.

One Coles School parent reported being "heckled" by picketers, who mistook her for a teacher or board member when she arrived early for the evening program.

The parent said "derisive" comments like "Hey, boss" and "Oh, she's probably a new teacher," were tossed her way before demonstrators realized they were speaking to a parent.

Mrs. McGuane confirmed that picketing is structured so that a home school's "Back to School Night" is manned by SPFEA members from other schools.

Another Coles School parent, Suzanne Cockrell, found the picketing "offensive." She said "picketing on a 'Back to School Night' is no way to enlist parental support. I'm not very sympathetic at this point."

In the days preceding Tuesday's "Back to School Night," McGinn School parents received a double dose of bad news. Not only would teachers not be on hand to speak with parents, "We've been told that classrooms won't be open," explained one parent.

When asked why the administration went ahead with the annual event despite most teachers' absence, Dr. Choye responded, "Teachers were expected to attend 'Back to School Nights.' We appreciate the professionalism of those who did."

"We have always held 'Back to School Nights' as a way for parents and teachers to keep lines of communication open," Dr. Choye added. "An alternative program, prepared by principals and supervisors, was held in the absence of most of the teachers in order to keep parents informed about our curriculum."

"I do need to emphasize that the teachers continue to do a good job in the classroom," she continued. "Learning is taking place. But evidence shows that when parents and staff work together, children do better."

District Music Programs Need Funds to Succeed

By JEANNE WHITNEY
Specially Written for The Times

district students participate in the school music programs voluntarily. District Supervisor of Fine Arts Vincent Turturiello said over one-half of high school students participate in some sort of music program.

Fourth grade students start on instruments in the program and fifth graders may join a choir. Middle school musicians join concert bands in each of three grades (sixth, seventh and eighth) according to the Supervisor — who is known to his students as Mr. "T". Each of the two middle schools also has a jazz band and select wind ensemble.

The district high school also has three concert bands, two jazz bands — including the often highlighted Moonglowers, a marching band, a clarinet choir, a percussion ensemble and a brass choir.

"Everybody likes the programs and it works very well," Booster Mazzagetti confirmed.

Evidently, Mr. "T" turned to parents to raise money for district musicians when the department budget remained unchanged over the last six or seven years, he said, and student participation in the programs increased. "We had really no choice," he said, but to turn to fundraising.

An information officer for the district's Board of Education said this year's budget for the music department, not including teachers' wages, is $52,000. The district has 10 music teachers, one Booster said.

According to Mr. Mazzagetti, with nearly 1,000 student musicians in the district, that is $52 per student. Not very much, he added.

Mr. "T" said the district buys the larger — and costly — brass instruments for students to use, such as trombones, tubas and also percussion instruments.

Choral Director at the high school, Ms. Laurie Wellman, explained she has a Concert Choir of 320 students, one Show Choir and two Select Choirs of about 60 each. "We do a musical [play] every year, too," she said. Last year, they staged Crazy For You.

There are no string instrument programs in the district.

So, to kick off the ambitious fundraising venture Ms. Sorge is co-chairing a dinner dance at The Westwood in Garwood on Friday, November 27. The theme will be "Celebrate Music, Celebrate Life: More Than 60 Years of Music in Scotch Plains-Fanwood," she said.

"We've just sent out 500 invitations," Ms. Sorge said, and hopes that more alumni and friends will join in the fun.

Boosters say a golf outing, concert series and carnival are in the planning stages for music lovers. Mr. Mazzagetti said he is spearheading a "Buy a Note" campaign where donors "buy" a music note engraved with their name or other dedication. Donors' "notes" will be mounted on a wall plaque of wooden music staves outside the high school auditorium, where musical performances are often held.

He said he is also looking for corporate donors who seek a connection with the community.

Any funds the Boosters raise will be doled out to the music department for specific purchases, Mr. Mazzagetti said. "We are non-profit and we will have some sort of board," he added.

Many boosters were student musicians themselves at one time. Mr. Mazzagetti said he applauds the discipline, pride and sense of community a music programs provides to students.

Supervisor Turturiello, a 20-year veteran of the district, concluded, "If you think about the music program, it's there for the community. It's a two-way street."

Comcast Cablevision contract for service to residents in the township. Earlier this year, the Council asked residents in a mailed survey to rate the current cable service, also with Comcast. Reportedly, no major changes were considered.

Councilman William F. McClintock, Jr., has repeatedly indicated that the township franchise renewal with Comcast will not be exclusive. In that way, potential technological developments by companies other than Comcast will not be precluded from moving into the arena.

It is thought the council is looking for a contract of less than 10 years and maybe as few as 5 years. The two previous contracts were 10 years each, officials said.

On a separate matter, the Downtown Task Force recommended that the Council seal the wood of the newly constructed gazebo on the Village Green in the downtown, before winter weather hits. Officials suggested the township hire an outside firm to finish it, since the Department of Public Works will be occupied with leaf collection and disposal in the coming weeks.

Councilman Martin Marks, who is Council liaison to the task force, said it was possible to remove a front gate of the gazebo and replaced with a platform that extends beyond the cover, during special events.

The Council agreed to accept 14

Adjustment Board Okays Waldheim Ave. Building

peared before the board to testify on behalf of the applicant.

Mr. Watson described the site plan and talked about the tax map showing the zoning line between residential and industrial areas surrounding the Mr. Natale's lot.

"This township intended for this area to be geared toward industrial; in fact, township regulation permits it, we are not breaking any rules," he stated.

"However," Mr. Watson continued, "having an apartment on the second floor will temper the effects of the industrial use of the building." He noted that "the only negative effect I can think of would be traffic due to the tenant."

"The proposed site improves the vacant lot and fits into the surrounding area of Waldheim Avenue," he concluded.

Mr. Dupont responded affirmatively when Mr. Rodgers inquired whether there would be "enough buffering of the abutting property." Mr. Dupont added that "we did a Wetlands analysis and we found there is no buffer required by the state."

When Mr. Rodgers questioned the engineer about drainage, Mr. Dupont said, "We did design an underground seepage pit in the rear parking lot which meets local ordinance."

Attorney Michael B. Blacker, representing the applicant, told the board that, "This lot was made non-conforming in 1954, from residential to M-1 industrial."

"The problems associated with Waldheim Avenue won't be associated with my client, Mr. Natale's property," he added.

Mr. Blacker appeared as to why local residents would be objectionable to a residential apartment.

"I fully understand the concerns of the Concord Row residents," said Vice Chairman Thomas Barth. "However, this was an M-1 zone before their homes were built; the noise and disturbances are unfortunate."

"As a plumber, this applicant will not generate disturbances as much as, say, a landscaper or concrete contractor," Mr. Barth continued. "I also feel an apartment will decrease, not contribute, to the problems on Waldheim."

Added board member James Fawcett, "It seems that what is in question here are the problems on Waldheim Avenue, and perhaps Mr. Natale is a scapegoat."

"I encourage Concord residents to focus on the operators who are using heavy machinery, etc. on Waldheim Avenue," he remarked.

"The bottom line is that the applicant is requesting a variance to build on a pre-existing undersized lot," he observed. "Something is going to go in there, it may as well be this."

Fellow board member Thomas Perrucci commented, "Obviously, Mr. Natale has complied with the board. Waldheim Avenue has always been a sore spot. Also, I think the apartment is a plus, but there needs to be adequate buffering on the site."

Board members collectively determined that an apartment on the second floor will soften the overall industrial impact on the lot. However, several conditions will need to be met by the applicant.

There must be an immediate cleanup of debris on the site, and the applicant must immediately revoke use of the property by A-1 Trees Service, the board decreed.

In addition, no outside storage whatsoever will be permitted, and any outdoor lighting will have to be properly shielded so as not to intrude on neighboring residents.

The board conditioned for a motion sensor on the outdoor lights, since the hours during which they will be lit remained questionable. The applicant is also to provide a six-foot, board-on-board fence as a buffer in the rear of the site. In addition, any vehicles must be parked inside the building's garage.

Finally, the board mandated that there shall be no other activities or other uses on the site other than what it was intended for.

Under other business, the board unanimously denied a temporary operating permit which had been requested by applicants Kim Ruesta and Ronald and Oscar Chacon of 201 Union Avenue.

The applicants planned to operate a used car lot on Route No. 22. Several board members seemed ill at ease with the trio's lack of experience and knowledge of the market, and because they did not have a site plan to present to the board.

"Route 22 is the gateway to Scotch Plains," stated Mr. Fawcett. "We would like to see more of an enhancement to that part of Route 22."

The board showed concern with the applicants' lack of clarity as to how the property would be used.

Mr. Barth stated, "This application is for a temporary operating permit; what happens if you find a new property if this business is successful? The board has no control over what happens to that lot."

The board was not alone in its opposition to this application. A number of disgruntled local residents turned out to voice disapproval of the proposal, which would bring another business to already heavily-traveled highway.

Complaints were primarily based on concerns over tangled traffic on Route No. 22, the potential impact on surrounding homeowners, child safety, noise and exhaust pollution.

In other business, James and Janet Walsh of 2030 Winding Brook Way requested a temporary operating permit to erect a temporary luxury trailer in front of their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walsh said they were in the process of adding a second floor to their home, but that the devastating Labor Day storm caused serious damage to the portion of the residence being renovated.

Work to reconstruct that section has begun, and the couple plan to live in the trailer while the project is being completed.

The board approved a temporary operating permit for the trailer up to Thursday, December 31, in order for the Walshes to have temporary living quarters.

State Reveals Storm Aid In Amount of $1.3 Million can and should step in with monetary assistance," he said.

Working together with the Legislature and the Administration, the Department of Transportation will be appropriating storm aid funding for area communities through the Transportation Trust Fund Discretionary Aid Program administered by Transportation Commissioner John Haley.

Under the funding formula, municipalities with less than $16,000 worth of storm damage will be reimbursed for 50 percent of the clean-up cost. Towns which incurred more damage will be awarded an initial $15,000 to help with expenses, but will be responsible for the next $25,000 before being eligible for additional state aid equal to half of their remaining costs up to $100,000.

Westfield will receive $95,000 to help defray storm-related costs of $200,000. Scotch Plains will receive $55,000 for damage estimated at $120,000, while Fanwood will receive $96,500 to offset damages of $203,000.

The hardest hit community was Plainfield, which had damages placed at $457,500. The state will be sending a check to the city in the amount of $100,000.

"I have always said that state government and local governments were partners in serving the people of this state," said Senator DiFrancesco.

"That is why I am so pleased that we have been able to secure funding and will be able to lift some of the financial burden placed on Cranford and other municipalities that worked diligently and at great expense to serve the needs of their storm-ravaged communities," he added.

Public Service Electric and Gas (PSE&G) company officials said the severe thunderstorm caused the worst power outage in PSE&G's territory in three decades.

Over 200 primary power lines were downed, with many electrical fires reported.

Some 100,000 customers of PSE&G in the three-county region lost electrical power. In some cases, power was out for several days.

Also receiving aid were: County of Union, $100,000; Clark, $69,000; Cranford, $100,000; Elizabeth, $15,000; Garwood, $6,000; Linden and Rahway, $70,000 each; Roselle, $82,500; Union and Winfield, $15,000. Also receiving aid were: Middlesex County, $15,000; Dunellen, $57,500; Edison, $48,250; Middlesex, $17,500; Woodbridge, $16,000; South Plainfield, $70,000, and Piscataway, $56,231.

Additional aid was received by: Somerset County, $15,000; Bedminster, $500; Bridgewater, $17,500; Green Brook, $7,500; Millstone, $300; Montgomery, $8,000; North Plainfield, $15,000; Raritan, $1,500; South Bound Brook, $4,500; Watchung, $15,000; Warren, $2,500, and Passaic County, $3,700.

Mountainside BOE Discusses Vandalism At Beechwood School

By SHANNON T. WATERS
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

The Mountainside Board of Education reviewed a report on vandalism, as well as various educational items, during its bi-monthly meeting Tuesday evening at Deerfield School.

The half-hour public meeting, which began about 9 p.m., followed an hour-long Executive Committee meeting. An executive session followed the public meeting.

On October 12, the Beechwood School, now operated by the Union County Educational Services Commission as the Mountainside branch of the West Lake School, reported that damaging tire tracks were left by vehicles driving across the turf grass there.

Board members agreed that while the Mountainside Police Department has always been diligent about monitoring the school after hours, residents living nearby could also help to limit criminal activity.

They suggested that neighbors of the school on Woodacres Drive could leave their outside lights on, be watchful of after-hours activity, and report anything suspicious to the police.

Board members noted that the school is in a less visible location and has less daily traffic than Deerfield School, so supplemental monitoring would be beneficial.

An educational addendum to the board's posted agenda was the Quality Assurance Annual Report. This is a state requirement which outlines last year's and next year's developed school plans, professional development, and program review.

Board members reviewed the report, made recommendations and approved it for delivery to the state.

Future presentations to the school board include a Mathematics Curriculum Presentation scheduled for Tuesday, November 3. Vicki Jenkins, Supervisor of Special Services/LDTC, will present New Rules and Regulations on Tuesday, November 17.

Parents and community members are invited to attend these and all board meetings.

The board also okayed placement of a child in the Cranford Achievement Program for a 10-month school year at a cost of $20,115. The school year commenced September 8 and will conclude on Wednesday June 23, 1999.

Under personnel action, the board approved the appointment of Julie

Marie Rombola as a substitute teacher for the 1998-1999 school year, as well as the maternity/disability leave of Mary Jo Nicholson effective Tuesday, November 3.

On a separate matter, Dr. Gerard A. Schaller, Chief School Administrator, updated the board on the progress being made at Deerfield's backfield. Sod will be laid soon and the water system will be repaired.

During an earlier meeting, the Mountainside Parent Teacher Association (PTA) met to approve its budget for 1998-1999 and to discuss Megan's Law. This law requires sex offenders to register with the police in the town where they reside.

Registrants are assigned to three tiers of risk levels, with Tier Three considered to be high for risk of recurrence.

Based on where the individual lives, works or regularly frequents, only residents likely to encounter the registrant are entitled to receive notification. Notice of Tier Two registrants goes to police and community organizations.

Registration forms are available at the local police departments and the Union County Prosecutor's Office for groups that would like to be considered for designation as a community organization.

The PTA's total anticipated expenditures for the school year equal $89,254. It expects to generate at least $63,000 through fund-raising events, including bake, cookie and candy sales, a community dinner, a fair, a fashion show and a pancake breakfast.

Mountainside Dems Question Boro Costs

By KIMBERLY A. BROADWELL
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

At Tuesday's Mountainside Council meeting, Democratic candidate for council Steve Brociner, asked Council President Keith Turner to respond to his recent letter to the editor that appeared in the Sunday, October 18, edition of the Star Ledger newspaper.

In his letter, Mr. Brociner accuses the Mayor and members of the council of using the borough's taxpayer money in a wasteful manner by overspending at the annual League of Municipalities convention in Atlantic City.

The November convention is ostensibly a work session for local officials gathering updates on new state legislation every year and provides as well, an opportunity for local lawmakers to hobnob with their counterparts from around the state.

In the letter, Mr. Brociner also makes a comparison between what Mountainside officials spend on the event and the amount the neighboring town of Berkeley Heights spends. He states that Berkeley Heights paid $440 last year for lodging.

He also states that the township paid "the registration fee and mileage for 12 attendees." In contrast, Mr. Brociner states that Mountainside paid for 14 double rooms at the Sands Hotel and Casino costing $90 per room, which would total $1,260. He also states that the total bill for the 1995 convention cost the borough $4,478.75.

In response, Mr. Turner told the audience that when records were checked with the Municipal Clerk of Berkeley Heights, Melissa Palsy, the total bill for the township's attendance was $1,751.72.

Councilman Turner also told the audience that the number of attendees from Berkeley Heights was significantly smaller than that of Mountainside and that Berkeley Heights had seven representatives and Mountainside had 17.

He also said that another part of Mr. Brociner's letter was incorrect in that he stated "all councilmen attended both conventions and individual traveling expenses were paid separately." Mr. Turner said this was not true.

He told the audience that not all councilman attended the three-day conference.

Mr. Turner told the audience that he felt "the conference was very beneficial to the borough in that it keeps both the paid professional staff that works for the borough as well as elected officials current and up to date on issues that are important to all residents."

After the meeting, officials told The Westfield Leader that the borough does pay for all those who attend. Those who attend any professional conference are entitled to be reimbursed on registration, food and lodging expenses. Officials said that the borough will pay up to $50 per day per person on food.

Gregory Bonin, Borough Administrator, commented that the annual conferences were very valuable for the professional staff in that it provided Continuing Educational Units, which were essential to those in professional paid positions to continue their employment.

For example, Mr. Bonin said that the Municipal Clerk needs ten credits of continuing education each year to retain the title. It also keeps employees "on the cutting edge on issues in government," he said.

He also stated that it "helped local governments make better and responsible decisions."

Ms. Palsy confirmed there was indeed a total of seven people attending the conference last year, with a total bill amounting to $1,751.17.

In other business, resident Susan Menninger, told the council that she was appalled at the recent letter that Mayor Viglianti had sent to Mountainside residents on "Taxes and Municipal Budgets."

She said she was disappointed because she felt the Mayor and Council did not support the Deerfield school and Mountainside's Board of Education. She said the Mayor described how the Council and Mayor have no control over the Board of Education budget.

The Mayor's comment in his letter, she said, stated "only when the Board of Education budget is defeated by public vote does the governing body have a voice in their process."

Mr. Turner addressed Mrs. Menninger saying that since the Mayor was not present at that meeting, she could address him when he returned next week. He also said that while he did not feel it was his place to speak for the Mayor he did say he believed the Mayor's letter did not have an agenda that was unsympathetic to the borough's school.

He also stated that it was the policy of the Council not to "bring politics into the schools, by interfering in the business of the Board of Education."

Mr. Tuner also cited an example

Compromise on ‘Pocket Park’ Funds Proves Two-Party System Can Work

Last week’s decision on how to spend Union County matching grant funds in Westfield proves that when two opposing sides put their heads together, a compromise can come forward under the two-party system. Over the past few months there has been continuous dialogue on where to spend $200,000 in funds from the county and the town as part of the county’s Project Pocket Park Program.

While Democrats believed the focus should be on new projects, as opposed to those already in the so-called “pipeline,” Republicans said the funds should be directed toward several projects approved by the Town Council under previous capital budgets to ensure they are completed.

In the end, four projects received funding: Gumbert Park, $70,000; Sycamore Field, $60,000, and Tamaques Field, $40,000. An additional $30,000 was spread out under a general category of “parks and recreation.” Originally, under a proposal by Third Ward Councilman Neil F. Sullivan, Jr., Memorial Park would have received funding.

The other Third Ward council representative, John J. Walsh, proposed that funding be provided for bathrooms at Gumbert; that a park be created to honor human rights advocate and one-time resident Paul Robeson and for a “pocket park” on Central Avenue, as well as for improvements at Tamaques Park, Sycamore Field and Mindowaskin Park.

We believe a number of good projects were put before the Ad Hoc Committee formed by Mayor Thomas C. Jardim which should be strongly considered by the Town Council when it begins the capital budget process in December. Top among them should be bathrooms at Gumbert — and for that matter, in other recreational areas — and the concrete overpass at Mindowaskin.

A number of other interesting projects were put before the committee, such as a Touch and Scent Garden at Rahway Avenue and Shadowlawn Drive, and the Robeson Park idea. These two projects, though, should take a lower priority, since the condition of existing parks is well below par — and we are not just talking golf here.

Activities at Westfield’s parks have increased dramatically over the years, with everything from Police Athletic League football games, elementary and intermediate schools’ soccer games and Little League, as well as high school sports played on parks throughout the town.

The issue of parks and fields has been a continuing theme of this year’s Mayoral and council races. The town needs to do the repairs and then create a continuing maintenance program which should be funded at least partially by the many organizations that use the fields on a continuous basis.

We believe Westfield’s baseball and softball fields should be upgraded by the spring to eliminate the possibility of a serious injury. The main concern among the men’s softball leagues has been Tamaques Park.

With half the cost of improvements at Sycamore funded through the program, hopefully, most of the remaining moneys can be raised by the soccer association in town. Or perhaps more funds can be included in the 1998 town budget.

The Downtown Westfield Corporation has proposed that small open spaces in the downtown be refurbished with seating to improve the appearance and ambiance of the business district.

As this year’s budget process approaches, we will be listening closely as discussion ensues on projects concerning the future upgrade of Westfield’s infrastructure — namely our parks, fields and roads. Now that Westfield’s downtown vacancies have been filled, for the most part, all efforts should be headed in this direction.

So, while the process included a bumpy road, in the end a compromise was achieved, as was the case earlier this year with the passage of an exterior maintenance code.

Letters to the Editor

Mountainside Taxpayers Encouraged To Show More Interest in Government

As a homeowner in Mountainside since 1997, I’m puzzled by the public’s lack of interest in its municipal government.

The Mayor made numerous promises in the writing of a big deduction in 1998 municipal taxes due to the end of the regional high school system. Never happened. In fact, my tax bill shows an increase. No accountable explanation from the governing body and, most disturbing, no outcry from the taxpayers. Don’t they care?

Recently, a large portion of Mountainside was without power for three days and police officers maintained traffic control on Route No. 22. Not a word to the public on how to cope with this emergency and what was being done to alleviate the problem.

There doesn’t seem to be any real media coverage of the borough, and maybe that’s why one party has had 100 percent political control since year one.

Local papers reported that the League of Women Voters was willing to sponsor a public forum for the opposing Borough Council candidates, and the Republicans refused. And the public doesn’t care.

The lack of interest by Mountainside taxpayers is alarming. Let’s hope it changes soon, as lively discussions of the issues is always healthy and leads to accountable government.

Town Personnel Earn Kudos for Aid To Family With Tree Emergency

We were reminded last night, once again, why Westfield is a great place to live. Friday night, October 9, at 9:30 p.m., while eating dinner with our visiting parents, we were interrupted by a huge crash.

A good portion of one of our 70 foot oak trees in our front yard had broken off and was leaning on the roof of our house across our electrical line. We called 911, and within a minute, there was a police car in front of my house.

Upon asking the officer if I should call Public Service Electric and Gas, he told me that he had already done so, as well as the Westfield Department of Public Works. While we were speaking, the Fire Department pulled up.

Within five minutes, three men from the Westfield Department of Public Works pulled up in a truck with a wood chipper attached, and a cherry-picker. They worked in the rain with the fire department standing by providing light

POPCORN™

Happiness: Guilty Thrills

By Michael S. Goldberger

One Popcorn, Poor • Two Popcorns, Fair • Three Popcorns, Good • Four Popcorns, Excellent

It has been said that the true nature of one’s character can be judged by what one does when they believe no one is watching. True or not, it is in this very private world where director Todd Solondz unleashes his latest foray of shock value, profundity and outrageous humor.

The young filmmaker from New Jersey who brought us Welcome to the Dollhouse, Mr. Solondz carries “telling it like it is” to a new and deliriously unsettling level in Happiness. He dares illuminate the dark areas, gleefully gleaming material usually relegated to the recesses of our consciousness. What most folk would be hesitant to explore, this director turns into table conversation. Making casual a telling of the verboten, he is an artist delving in the underground rainbow of taboo and the impermissible.

Yet, despite all the startle effect which has become his stock in trade, Solondz is remarkably responsible, almost studious in the obsessive way he probes under the rocks of the human psyche. Detailing the gruesome tale of a pederaast among the six or seven tarnished lives he dissects in Happiness, the filmmaker manages a chillingly objective insight one wouldn’t expect in a work of fiction.

Addressing pedophilia so boldly, Solondz is to film what Lenny Bruce was to stand-up comedy, dealing nonchalantly with masturbation, phone sex, and a whole kaleidoscope of depravities and fetishes which probably haven’t even been named yet.

Whereas director David Lynch (Blue Velvet, Lost Highway) has long been fond of investigating the fringe desperadoes who operate up and down the dark alleyways of normal civilization, it is Mr. Solondz’s contention that there is another community festering right under our noses, within the sub-text of our very own society...that all people, in varying degrees, have two lives...the outward, public persona, and the very private, passion-concealing self.

Most of the movie’s bizarre characters would agree that the road to happiness is paved with misery and depression. Take Allen, for example, played with discomfiting intensity by Phillip Seymour Hoffman. A heavy breather with an uncontrollable penchant for naughty anonymous phone calls to the ladies, the pathetic nowhere man admittedly bores his psychiatrist to death.

But Dr. Maplewood, the aforementioned pedophile played with frightening brilliance by Dylan Baker, doesn’t much care. His sordid mind is elsewhere...scheming his next conquest. And then there is Trish (Cynthia Stevenson) and her two sisters. Married to the film’s Dr. Jekyll, Trish hasn’t a clue that hubby is really Mr. Hyde. She has catapulted self-delusion to a new art form. Bragging to her sister, Helen (Lara Flynn Boyle), about “having it all,” the psychiatrist’s wife is surely her suburban wasteland’s poster girl.

Helen Jordan, on the other hand, is an attractive artist, somehow a poet of note despite her profound vacuity — an alluring portrait of ice and self-loathing. When the heavy breather calls and tells her that she is nothing, and then proceeds to describe his litany of sexual intentions, she scares him off, for a time, by turning the tables and pursuing him.

Add an obese rape victim/hatchet murderer, Kristina (Camryn Manheim), to this cauldron of lovelorn bliss seekers, and that only leaves the third Jordan sister, Joy (Jane Adams), the just-turned-30 plain Jane who has had little luck in love and even less success with her music career. Feigning interest in Joy’s plight while actually high-hatting their unsettled sis, catty Trish and Helen advance sibling rivalry to a terminal illness. So bland she almost doesn’t deserve happiness, Joy is the film’s innocent, an Alice in Dysfunctional Land, a Candide left to swim in a bath of snakes.

Unable to help themselves, the deviants recall all those old Wolfman movies. The moon is about to be full, and the Wolfman begs to be locked up...so that he won’t be able to give way to his inner demon. One wonders, were all those fantastical films mere metaphors for what Mr. Solondz now brings into full daylight?

It is near amazing how, in telling his several tales out of school, Solondz mimics the manic-depressive realities of life itself, alternating between outright hilarity to deeply somber doings without compromising either emotion.

Sitting on the couch at a watershed moment, contemplating his ghastly duality, Dylan Baker’s Dr. Bill Maplewood carefully explains his sickness to son Billy (Rufus Read). It is dark in the room, medium light and shadow on the child molester’s face. Billy, approaching puberty, has concerns of his own, and in the role of parent, the doctor is aware of the child’s need to know. Eyes as hollow as Orphan Annie’s, the monster carefully details his heinous pathology.

There is haunting, dead silence in the theater. Only minutes ago the audience was crowded with laughter, howling at the heavy breather’s mind-boggling ineptitude. But there is no sympathy for the telephone pervert, and even less for Dr. Maplewood. Only a question. What to do with all this disturbing information?

Happiness, not rated, is a Good Machine release directed by Todd Solondz and stars Jane Adams, Dylan Baker and Lara Flynn Boyle. Running time: 135 minutes.

‘Yes’ Vote on Second Question Will Keep New Jersey Green Into 21st Century and Beyond

By DONALD T. DIFRANCESCO
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

In January of this year, in my annual State of the Senate address, I announced that open space preservation would be the state Legislature’s top priority in 1998. At the same time, Governor Christine Todd Whitman outlined her own open space protection program with the goal of preserving one million acres over the next ten years.

Together, we shared a common objective of securing a stable source of funding to protect New Jersey’s remaining farmland and open spaces before they are lost forever.

Over the course of the next several months, the legislative process saw various initiatives aimed at preserving open spaces, though each was different in terms of the scope of the program and how it was funded. The final version to emerge from the Legislature in June was one on which everyone could agree was the best plan to preserve the beauty of the Garden State for our children and for our grandchildren.

Even established, densely populated counties, such as Union County, can benefit from a statewide Open Space Preservation Program. The dollars raised through the legislation can be used to maintain and beautify existing park land and reserves, and can even create open spaces and recreational areas where there once were abandoned buildings or empty lots.

Time is growing short to protect the Garden State’s remaining open spaces, and New Jersey needs a statewide plan of attack now if we are to preserve the New Jersey we know and love for future generations.

It is our responsibility to protect New Jersey’s disappearing open space and farmland for our children and

HUSTINGS

Hustings is a term that is frequently heard during political campaigns. It has some interesting relations which have appeared in this column — for example: husband and hussy. The first element of all of these words is hus-, which has the basic sense of “to hide, cover or shelter” and which eventually became the English word house.

Hustings was originally used only in its singular form and literally meant “house thing.” It described an early Anglo-Saxon tribal assembly or government. Hustings eventually gave way to the Norman French word parliament which, in turn, came from the French word parler, “to talk.” Thereafter, the English limited hustings to its plural form and defined it as “a platform on which people running for parliament stand and make speeches to their constituents.”

Hustings is currently used colloquially in the United States and Britain in phrases such as, “take to the hustings.” If this colloquialism stumps you, just think of a politician going on the stump; an idiom that describes the earlier campaign practice of giving speeches while standing on a tree stump. Perhaps these campaigners felt that the stump raised the level of their rhetoric.

Country Has Strange Sense of Morality Regarding President’s ‘High Crimes’

The President of the United States is being accused of having committed high crimes and misdemeanors sufficient for his impeachment by the United States House of Representatives and conviction by the United States Senate for sexual indiscretion and a subsequent cover-up.

There is, however, a strange sense of morality in our country. Is it not a high crime and misdemeanor for United States Senators and Congressmen to vote against gun control legislation, to vote against restricting cigarette advertising to teenagers, to refuse to pay the more than billion dollars in back dues to the United Nations for its many humanitarian programs and peace-keeping operations, to oppose efforts to stop the ethnic cleansing in The Balkans, to fragment further the social safety net, to gut environmental law, and to fund military programs the Pentagon does not want? Which is the greater immorality?

No one, including the President himself, denies that the President acted wrongly and perhaps should be censured but the true censure should be of those national legislators and their colleagues in state legislatures who back this lobby or that lobby and think neither of the nation’s interest nor of the state’s interests which by constitutional oath they are sworn to uphold.

At least the President tried to apologize for his conduct in a country with a media and a Congress with legislators who will accept no apology and whose focus upon the President’s conduct deflects needed public attention away from the issues so vital to the future of our beloved country and of a war-torn and hunger-ravished world.

It is almost as if there is some subconscious belief or instinct that through the punishment of the President for his own moral misbehavior all moral misbehavior can be cleansed, forgiven, and forgotten.

Park User Appeals to Town Council To Preserve Tamaques Green Space

I have been a resident of Westfield for over 15 years and I have never written a letter to the newspaper until now. My concern centers on the plan that seems to be underway to cut trees and clear land in Tamaques Park to make additional parking lots.

Many people in the community go to the park to relax, enjoy nature and escape from urbanization. My family uses the park often and we have never found parking to be a problem.

I hope the Town Council members keep in mind how quickly a tree can be felled in relation to how long it takes one to grow to maturity. Please ask yourself why suburban communities are crying

Neighbor Is Opposed To Parking Spaces At Tamaques Park

I am opposed to adding any parking spaces in Tamaques Park. I live near the park and am there frequently. The present parking lots are never full. Weekends can be crowded, that is true, but that is only occasionally.

Let’s not trade one single inch of our beautiful green park for cement.

Mr. Greco Urges Focus On Critical Town Issues

Norman Greco

WESTFIELD — Now, more than ever, Westfield has an opportunity to make a difference in the November 3 Westfield Mayoral election, according to independent Mayoral candidate Norman N. Greco.

“As a resident of Westfield, each of us has a responsibility to vote on November 3. As we all know, Westfield is a dynamic community that constantly evolves. More and more of our free time is absorbed by family and community activities. Many times, we take for granted the wonderful surroundings that Westfield presents and forget the hard work that is required to keep this community vibrant.

“This year offers you the opportunity to elect an independent candidate who will resolve the crucial issues facing our town. The position of Mayor is similar to that of a head coach of a football team. The coach does not kick, throw or catch the football. He sets the direction of the team,” Mr. Greco said.

“Similarly, the Mayor is responsible to set the tone and direction of the Town Council and town administration. Your vote on November 3 will entrust this responsibility to one individual and set the tone for the future of Westfield.

“I sincerely hope that each and every one of Westfield’s voters will make a concerted effort to elect a Mayor who will take the responsibilities of this office seriously. These are trying times for all of us. Increased taxes, decreased funding, corporate downsizing, and shrinking budgets.

“These are times when all the qualities of constructive leadership will be put to the test. Times when all decisions will be closely monitored, and best intentions are not good enough. These are times that require a concerted team effort to insure that Westfield remains special,” Mr. Greco continued in his final statement of the campaign.

“I promise you that if elected, I will apply myself to the task with every fiber of my being, striving to be the best possible Mayor of Westfield,” he said.

“The right to vote is the foundation upon which our country was formed. This right should not be taken matter-of-factly,” he said.

Mr. Greco urged voters to show “the love they have for our town by voting for a Mayoral candidate who has a definite platform on the campaign issues, who has not indulged in character assassination, and who wants people to know the truth.”

Mr. Greco stated, “Our town needs a person who believes in the community, who has a history in Westfield, and will work to preserve our town’s heritage for future generations. I am the correct candidate to bring Westfield into the 21st century.”

“I am a straight-forward, common sense, down-to-earth person who will bring a business-like approach to town government. Westfield needs a Mayor that will unify all branches of local government without partisan politics,” he concluded.

Senior Tax Relief Plan

Four years after launching her Westfield Cares Program, Westfield First Ward Councilwoman and Republican Mayoral contender Gail S. Vernick joined Republican Congressman Bob Franks Tuesday to launch the Seniors Real Property Tax Relief Act of 1998.

The legislation, H.R. 4713, would enable eligible senior citizens who do not itemize on their deductions on their federal income tax to deduct the property taxes they pay on their home.

The bill would also create a new tax-free savings plan to help homeowners pay their property taxes after they retire. Homeowners, as part of the legislation, would set up a property tax individual retirement account, or IRA, where they would set aside money while they are em-

Mayor Jardim Proposes
Sidewalk Repair Incentive Program for Capital Budget

Thomas C. Jardim

WESTFIELD - Westfield Democratic Mayor Thomas C. Jardim, who is seeking a second term, recently announced his support for a sidewalk repair incentive program for the Town of Westfield.

This program calls for a 50-50 sharing of the cost of repairing or replacing broken sidewalks between the town and residents.

Through a referral memorandum to the Town Administrator and the Town Council's Public Works and Finance Committees, Mayor Jardim outlined the details of the program.

"This program would be similar to that utilized in many other towns in New Jersey and around the country," the Mayor stated. "The municipality would budget a fixed amount of funds each year – based on the popularity of the program – and residents could apply to share the cost of having sidewalks repaired by an outside contractor retained by the municipality."

"Like the town's current program of curb assessments, residents could either pay their portion of the cost in a lump sum or as a yearly assessment," the Mayor indicated.

"Anyone who has ever tried to push a baby stroller or walk on the sidewalk at night knows the hazards that exist throughout the town on our sidewalks," Mayor Jardim stated.

Mayor Jardim requested that the council appropriate $100,000 in the 1999 capital budget for the first year of the program. Such an appropriation, if approved by the council, would allow the program to begin by spring of 1999.

Officials have good reason to encourage property owners to fix dilapidated sidewalks, Mayor Jardim stated.

"Even though Westfield, like many towns, has an ordinance saying property owners are responsible for maintenance of sidewalks, such ordinances have not shielded municipalities from being sued," said Mayor Jardim.

"Sidewalk lawsuits are among the most common types of suits filed against municipalities, with as many as one sidewalk related lawsuit filed each week. It's as much dollars and cents, as it is common sense, for us to encourage their repair. It's also a matter of equity, as the roots of many town-owned trees have raised portions of some sidewalks, causing them to crack," the Mayor stated.

With literally miles of valuable and attractive blue-slate sidewalks, it is particularly important that residents understand this program would assist with repairs as well as replace.

"We should strive to preserve what we have, if possible," he stated.

Philathalians of Fanwood

Enter 67th Year Serving

Local Theater Lovers

By MICHELLE H. LePOIDEVIN
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

Editor's Note: The following is a continuation of this newspaper's series of articles on community theaters as part of the celebration of October as Arts and Humanities Month.

* * * * *

The historical Fanwood Carriage House on 129 Watson Road in Fanwood embodies the theatrical spirit of The Philathalians, a theater troupe which has convened for approximately 67 years.

The Philathalians derives its name from the Greek word "phila" meaning "lover of" and "Thalia," the Goddess of comedy.

The group combined its love for theater and comedy in 1932, when a group of Fanwood residents formed a drama club to create a diversion from the doldrums of the Great Depression and met as a social club. The members were employees of Westinghouse Corporation who shared a love for theater.

Plays and workshops were held in the homes of troupe members who began staging plays in local churches and schools. Over the years, the theater was housed at the Fanwood Bank. In 1961, the theater moved to a barn on Elm Street in Fanwood.

In 1982, the Philathalians began performing in the Carriage House, a historical landmark in Fanwood. The group transformed the House into theater space, accommodating room for a stage, audience seating with a capacity for 50 audience members, a backstage area, dressing room and storage area.

Ashbrook Center Plans

Pumpkin Contest

SCOTCH PLAINS – The Ashbrook Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Scotch Plains has announced the return of its annual "Guess the Weight of the Pumpkin" contest.

All children between the ages of 3 to 12 are invited to visit Ashbrook, located at 1610 Raritan Road, to guess the weight of a giant-sized pumpkin. Prizes will be awarded to the children who come closest to guessing the correct weight.

Entry forms are now available at Ashbrook's reception desk, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. One entry per child is permitted.

The winner will be announced on Saturday, October 31. For more information, please call Ashbrook's Activity Department at (908) 889-5500.

Freeholder Linda d. Stender, the Fanwood Borough Council and the Junior Women's Club of Fanwood were responsible for leading the conversion of the Carriage House into the present theater.

The Philathalians are strictly a volunteer-based membership organization with many opportunities for participation in various capacities such as helping backstage or working on sets, makeup, props and publicity.

A membership cost of $15 includes one complimentary ticket to each production. Members are also asked to become active in at least one production.

According to Jan Gabrielson, Vice President of Production, The Philathalians had a table at Fanny Wood Day.

Last year, the theater was nominated for a Perry Award for Best Production of Other People's Money and was nominated in 1996 for Best Acting Ensemble in its production of Painting Churches, which was directed by Gordon Weiner.

Mr. Weiner, a member of the Philathalians, described the various upcoming productions which are planned for the season.

The season will begin with the fall production of Paul Osborn's On Borrowed Time which will be directed by Mr. Weiner. The play will run for four weekends, beginning on Friday, October 30.

Play It Again, Sam, a Woody Allen creation, opens on Friday, February 12, and will be directed by Dennis Freeland.

On Friday, April 23, the theater will present The House of Blue Leaves, a play by John Guare to be directed by Ed Guinan.

The Philathalians call themselves "a thriving, growing part of the fabric of Fanwood." The theater invites new volunteers to contact them at (908) 322-8686.

They note that, "If you can hammer a nail, paint scenery, sew a costume, or serve refreshments, you can be an active member of The Philathalians."

The future holds great possibilities for the Philathalians. The Borough of Fanwood has started an effort to renovate the Carriage House to transform it into a cultural arts center.

The renovations include the installation of a handicapped bathroom. According to Ms. Gabrielson, a new shingled roof was added to the building as part of the renovations. The theater group intends to maintain the "historical integrity" which encompasses the Carriage House.

Westfield Test Scores Surpass

State and National Average

WESTFIELD – The Westfield Public School district has announced that the combined average of the Scholastic Assessment Test (SAT) for the Westfield High School (WHS) graduating class of 1998 was 1113, with 562 in mathematics and 551 in the verbal portion.

These results are 96 points higher than the national average of 1017, and 108 points above the state average of 1005, according to school district spokeswoman Lorre Korecky.

Ninety-eight percent of the WHS graduating class took the SATs, which is the largest percentage in recent history, the spokeswoman confirmed.

In addition to the achievements of the 1998 graduating class, nine WHS seniors also achieved exceptional SAT scores. Last spring, five of these students received perfect 800 scores on the SAT I, and there were seven perfect scores on the SAT II.

Jeffrey Diamond, Yair Ghitza and Andrew Lange scored 800 on the mathematics portion, while Jessica Hu and Ilka Netravali tallied 800s on the verbal section of the test.

In the SAT II (tests in specific subjects), Tara Bhandari, Caitlin Nish and Amy Philips obtained 800 each in Writing; Jessica Hu and Andrew Lange scored 800 each in Math Level 2; and So Young Yang received a perfect score in Korean.

WHS students also excelled in Advanced Placement tests administered this spring. The results indicate that 88 percent of the tests taken by WHS students were at levels 3, 4 or 5 — levels necessary for advanced standing or credit in colleges and universities, Mrs. Korecky said. This exceeds the national average of approximately 64 percent.

In May, 159 students took the Advanced Placement (AP) tests, with 140 achieving level 3 or better in one or more AP tests.

Westfield High School offers 14 advanced placement courses including United States History, Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, English Language, English Literature, European History, French, American Government, Calculus AB, Calculus BC, Physics, Psychology, and Spanish.

In releasing the SAT and AP results, Dr. Cas Jakubik, Supervisor of Guidance, said, "The members of the Class of 1998 have every reason to be proud of their accomplishments on the SAT I, SAT II and Advanced Placement Tests.

"Their achievements reflect their academic ideals and their personal commitment to excellence," he concluded.

Let’s Get Our Bathrooms in Place Before Adding More Parking Lots

I am a mother of a 4-year-old daughters and live near Tamaques Park. The park can be both a delight and a danger.
We enjoy using the playgrounds, tennis courts and fields. However, the number of cars, the speeds at which they travel, and lack of effective parking laws makes it dangerous at times to run or even push a baby carriage.
If the speed and volume of cars is not enough, then the cars parking on the right side of the road make traveling even more difficult.
Having mentioned all this you, could imagine my disbelief when I heard about the plans to add three new parking lots to a park famous for its half empty lots. To add insult to injury, these 71 -- yes 71 — new spaces were at a cost of $71,000. Would this change in parking spaces help make the park safer?

A resounding “no” is the answer that comes to my mind and that of friends and neighbors as well. This money should be used to maybe add a water fountain (there is only one in the park) or better yet, strictly enforce park speed limits and diminish, if not eliminate, parking on the right side of the road.
Little did I know that this $71,000 was just the tip of the iceberg. The “Pocket Park” program has close to $200,000 available for use. This amount of money warrants a serious specific plan. Aside from the above mentioned ideas, bathrooms in this town are obviously a problem.

Gumbert Park is just one example. Another that immediately comes to mind is Mindowaskin Park. Anyone who has spent time in this park has seen young children using the small patch of bushes as a bathroom facility.
How can a town of Westfield’s caliber leave children (many of whom are just toilet trained) without any bathrooms? It is time to sit down and take a serious look at the town’s priorities. Let’s get bathrooms in place before we add new parking lots to an overcrowded park.

Let Us Cast Aside Tendency of Blowing Things Out of Proportion

I am appalled at the effrontery of the individual ostensibly working on Mayor Thomas C. Jardim’s behalf who authored some of the questions on the latest poll.
My husband and I have known Mayor Jardim personally for several years and argue vehemently that this was not and never would be an approach he would sanction. Mayor Jardim has consistently attempted to work for the interests of the Town of Westfield and not out of political partisanship.
His priorities remain straightforward and he has made significant strides for the betterment of our town. One very big point to Mayor Jardim’s credit and one which continues to be overlooked was his call to stop the poll as soon as he found out about the inserted questions. Not only did Mayor Jardim stop the poll immediately, but he took responsibility for it and apologized both publicly and privately.
Let us get back to the issues at hand and set aside this most recent example of a local tendency to blow things out of proportion. We need instead to treat the issues squarely and with fair consideration.

Parent Calls Lack of Bathrooms At Westfield Parks ‘Embarrassing’

I am a lifelong resident of Westfield and a parent of five children, four of whom (school age) are active in town recreational sports including the traveling softball and baseball teams.
From April to August every year, I spend most evenings and weekends at the baseball and softball fields in Westfield and other local towns. I am a mom who supports these activities by paying the fees to participate as a spectator, a coach, and a fund-raiser.
It has been my experience that my children, who are involved in sports, stay out of trouble, keep high grades, and establish a sense of teamwork along with enhanced self-esteem. Sports are important to my family.
I am not alone. Other parents share my beliefs. There are crowds of us who sit on the bleachers at night and on weekends. In fact, most of my children’s peers are also involved in sports of some form or another. We live in a wonderful family-oriented and community-minded town where there is great interest and support of athletic activities for our youngsters.

The trouble is that we all share one common problem...we can’t use a bathroom at any of the fields because there are none! The choices are limited...bring a child (usually only a boy) on a mad dash to a desolate bush...let them go in their pants...race over to a friend or neighbor’s house close to the field (if you’re lucky enough to have one) or try to drive home before it’s too late!
In other local towns, not only do they have clean, stocked and conveniently located rest rooms, they also have concession stands, batting cages, and in most instances, dugouts.
It’s a real embarrassment to think that we live in a town that won’t even provide its residents, let alone out of town visiting teams, the luxury of a restroom.
The worst part is knowing that the present governing body in Westfield has the allocated resources to build these very basic facilities (and better yet more resources are available by way of county matching funds) but continues to have a need to “study” the problem and delay the solution.
I have missed too many good plays, strike outs and home runs because I had to race myself, or a child, off the field to use a bathroom. Again, I am not alone. This is an open letter to the Mayor and Town Council. What will you do about this?

Officer Rodger Helped Comfort Daughter After Car Accident

Editor’s Note: The following letter was sent to Westfield Police Chief Anthony J. Scutti with a copy sent to The Westfield Leader.
* * * * *
I am writing this letter to compliment you on the performance of one of your officers, Jason Rodger. On September 11, my daughter was involved in an automobile accident on Rahway Avenue. She was cut off and struck two parked automobiles.
Officer Rodgers was first on the scene and comforted her during the incident. His professionalism helped put her, being 17 years old, at ease.
Thankfully she was not injured, though the car’s airbags were activated and the car totaled. Being a retired New York City police detective with 25 years of service, I feel proud that I can say Police Officer Rodgers is a member of our police family.
Again, my compliments to your department.

from two years ago, when the Board of Education's budget was defeated and the Council and Mayor spent many hours reviewing it line by line until ultimately the budget was ultimately passed with a minor change.

In other business, resident Scott Schmedel asked why he had not seen any broadcasts of the August or September council meetings on local access Channel 35. Mr. Turner said that because the council felt that attracting new volunteers to the rescue squad was more important than the broadcast of those two meetings. Thus, tapes of the rescue squad trying to recruit new members took precedence.

In other business, a presentation was made by three members of the Union County Board of Elections regarding the new electronic voting machines that borough residents will use in November.

Bill Lear, Nancy Lawrence and Bob Polidore gave instructions and demonstrations on how to use the machines. Members of the audience practiced on the machines.

According to Nancy Lawrence, only four towns in Union County will be using the new machines in the coming General Election. These include Mountainside, Westfield, Fanwood and Kenilworth.

She also said that the Union County Board of Elections hoped to have the new machines for all 21 municipalities in the county by next year.

Finally, the council honored the accomplishments of Matthew Zimmerman, who finished fifth in the 50-meter dash for boys ages 9 to 10 at Hershey's National Track Meet this past August.

According to Mr. Turner and Matthew's father, Charles Zimmerman, Matthew had the fastest time in the Mid-Atlantic Region, which includes the states of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Washington, Delaware Maryland and in the country of Canada.

The Leader Called Bias Regarding Coverage of Westfield Mayoral Race

As a new member to the Westfield community, I write to express my disgust at the obvious bias of this newspaper. In its editorial last week, this newspaper decried the lack of forums available so that residents could question candidates on the issues affecting their towns.

The editorial dutifully attacked Mayor Thomas C. Jardim for not using this newspaper as his vehicle-of-choice to get his message out, even though Mayor Jardim has probably been the most accessible mayor for this town has ever had.

However, for some inexplicable reason, this newspaper failed to report that one of his opponents, Councilwoman Gail S. Vernick, had refused to debate not once, but twice, even though Mayor Jardim and independent candidate Norman N. Greco were ready, willing and able to do so.

It could hardly be said that this newspaper was unaware of this fact, as it was this newspaper itself that asked and was turned down by Mrs. Vernick when it offered to host a candidates' forum.

The other forum for debate and discussion turned down by Mrs. Vernick was to be hosted by Temple Emanu-El where Mrs. Vernick is a member.

When a candidate, any candidate, is either too arrogant or too afraid to debate her opponents, one has to wonder how strong an advocate for the people that candidate would be if elected. The Westfield Leader is correct to say that the voters have a right to "kick the tires" before choosing whom to vote for, but their coverage of this year's mayoral campaign seems to be less about kicking tires than about kicking Mayor Jardim.

'Yes' Vote on Public Question No. 1 Will Secure Stable Open Spaces

Editor's Note: The following letter was submitted by members of the Conservation Committee of the Plainfield Garden Club.

We urge a "yes" vote on Public Question No. 1 on Tuesday, November 3. This amendment will secure a stable source of funding for open spaces, farmlands and historical preservation in New Jersey.

A "yes" will provide funding to purchase one million acres of our state's open spaces over the course of 10 years and will provide protection for water supplies, air quality, habitats for plants and animals, recreational opportunities, flood and storm runoff, and the quality of life for future generations.

This funding source would not require new taxes or bonds, but rather dedicates existing revenue.

Open spaces continue to disappear at an alarming rate. Our state has approximately five million land acres, of which three million have already been developed, including half a million acres in the last 35 years alone. Urban sprawl continues to diminish the quality of life in New Jersey.

We are concerned that this sprawl, left unchecked, will suffocate our beautiful Garden State. We fear that the state's natural beauty will become lost to future generations and that they will have to contend with health dangers of overdevelopment (polluted watersheds, soil, and air).

It should be noted that in order for any land to physically sustain itself, a certain portion of that area needs to be left virgin (think "rainforests are to Earth" as "open spaces are to New Jersey"). We believe provisions to set aside open spaces are necessary for the very "health" of New Jersey and all its inhabitants.

There is a concern that in this particular political year, many will stay away from the voting booths. This proposal has been in the making for 15 years and now is our opportunity to make a statement as to the future of New Jersey's open spaces.

We ask support of Governor Christine Todd Whitman's proposal on Tuesday, November 3.

Westfield Council Should Reconsider Position on Paving Over Tamaques

I am writing this letter, because of my disgust that the Westfield Town Council has approved a plan to build three new parking lots and expand two others in Tamaques Park.

This action will seriously diminish the beauty of the park by replacing green panorama with black asphalt.

It will significantly reduce the foliage barrier which now separates the park from busy Lamberts Mill Road.

The net result will be a loss in the quality of life for those users of the park who appreciate the beauty and tranquility which only a natural setting offers. Why should we want to pave over what little we have left in this densely populated, highly developed, and heavily trafficked area?

The argument put forth to justify the paving is safety. Yet the real danger in this park comes from vehicles traveling too fast — often far above the 15 miles-per-hour speed limit — not from parked cars. Why don't we fix that? Modern technology offers an attractive solution.

Most of the time there is ample room in existing lots. At certain periods they do overflow, but if parking on the left of the road (which is already prohibited) were enforced, this could be tolerated.

When the new lots are completed, we shall still have parking and stopping along the road unless draconian measures are taken. Many people just won't walk a distance from their car to their desired destination, even when they come to the park for exercise.

Why do we want to pay so high a price for so highly suspect a gain? There are far better solutions available. I urge our council to reconsider. As one of my neighbors said, "They at least owe us the courtesy of another vote in the light of the new evidence which has been presented. Then we shall be able to ascertain who wants to preserve our park."

‘Four Weekends’ Offers Opportunity to Learn About County’s History

By MICHELLE H. LePOIDEVIN
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

A taste of Union County history will be available to county residents during “Four Centuries In A Weekend...A Journey Through Union County’s History” this Saturday, October 24, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, October 25, from noon to 5 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, the Department of Economic Development, Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, and the historical and cultural sites participating in the event.

Support has also been provided through grants from the New Jersey Historical Commission, the New Jersey Council for the Humanities, and the New Jersey Automobile Club of the American Automobile Association.

The heritage festival will offer the opportunity to explore the depth and diversity of local history. Twenty historical sites will be featured, including early mansions, farmhouses, museums and business establishments, some of which date back to the 1600s.

The Miller-Cory House Museum, located at 614 Mountain Avenue in Westfield, was constructed in 1740 and stands on the “road to the mountains,” its original site. It was named for its two owners, Samuel Miller and Joseph Cory, descendants of the earliest settlers in the area. The Miller and Cory families were farmers.

The museum is a one-and-a-half story, clapboard farmhouse. The property remained in the Cory family until 1921. The house includes a beehive oven for baking and an open hearth fireplace.

During the Colonial period, sheep were sheared in the springtime on the property. Candles were created to light the house, and wool was spun into thread to weave fabric.

As part of “Four Centuries In A Weekend,” the Miller-Cory Museum will offer guided tours by docents in period dress, open hearth cooking and a fall festival.

The Osborn Cannonball House at 1840 Front Street in Scotch Plains is another stop on the “journey.” It is a small, white clapboard house which was erected in the early 1700s by Jonathan and Abigail Osborn.

The house features wooden pegs which were used in construction then instead of nails; low doors and ceilings, brick-filled walls, 19th-century furnishings, an arbor and formal gardens.

The house got its name as the result of a Continental cannon which was fired in the direction of oncoming British troops in the Battle of Ash Swamp during the Revolutionary War. The shot was misdirected and landed on the side of the house. Townspeople afterwards started to refer to the house as the Cannonball House.

The house, which has been restored and furnished, is operated as a museum by the Historical Society of Scotch Plains-Fanwood.

An exhibit of 19th-century hats and changing exhibits of period clothing will also be featured during the weekend.

The Saltbox Museum, located at 1350 Springfield Avenue in New Providence, was originally inhabited by the Leni-Lenape Indians. The first European settlers to this area, or Puritans, arrived in 1720 and came through the “West Fields.”

The museum is a blend of two houses built in separate locations and in different years between 1790 and 1844. It obtained its saltbox shape when the houses were united in the 19th century. The museum’s first floor is partially furnished to represent a standard New Jersey farmhouse of the mid-19th century.

The museum is now operated by the New Providence Historical Society.

During the weekend, the museum will feature an exhibit entitled “Preserving Our Past for the Future,” as well as antique toys. Guided tours are also scheduled.

Those touring the Mason Room at the New Providence Library, 377 Elkwood Avenue, will be treated to a collection of rare documents, maps, photographs and oral history tapes. The tours are scheduled for Saturday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The Deacon Andrew Hetfield House, at Constitution Plaza in Mountainside, was originally built at another location in 1760 by Deacon Andrew Hetfield. His descendants added onto the house over a period of 70 years. Three stages were involved in the completion of the house, which occurred in 1830.

The house was saved from demolition in 1984 by the Mountainside Historic Preservation Committee and the Borough of Mountainside. A year later, it was transported along Route No. 22 to its present location.

The house includes a Victorian bay window and parlor furnished with antiques, and a recreated Colonial-style kitchen. Guided tours will be available during the weekend, and visitors will also be able to explore the house on their own.

Other historic sites featured during the weekend will be the Littell-Lord Farmstead and The Deserted Village of Feltville-Glenside in Berkeley Heights; the Dr. William Robinson Plantation in Clark; the Crane-Philips House in Cranford; the Belcher-Ogden Mansion and Boxwood Hall in Elizabeth; and Evergreen Cemetery and the Woodruff House/Eaton Store Museum in Hillside.

Also featured will be the Drake House Museum in Plainfield; the Merchants and Drovers Tavern in Rahway; the Abraham Clark House in Roselle; the Roselle Park Museum; the Cannon Ball House in Springfield; the Carter House and Reeves-Reed Arboretum in Summit, and Caldwell Parsonage in Union.

Visitors will receive Time Traveler Certificates with validated “Passports to Discovery” after participating in the designated tours.

Participants whose passports are not completed over the weekend may have them stamped at the tour sites until Friday, April 30, 1999, in order to qualify for a certificate.

Children who participate in the event will be supplied with specially prepared lesson kits which include timeline activities, compare-and-contrast activities about their historical visits, and a bulletin board map activity.

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders was recently presented with the 1998 Achievement Award by NACO (National Association of Counties) for the “Four Centuries In A Weekend” project.

“The weekend offers visitors a variety of experiences and special events at all 20 historic sites and house museums,” stated Daniel P. Sullivan, Freeholder Board Chairman.

“Join in the fun as you explore the historic sites that have played important roles in shaping Union County and New Jersey throughout the past 400 years,” he concluded.

County Delegation Returns From Portugal Trade Mission

A delegation of government and business leaders from Union County, led by Assemblyman Joseph Suliga of the 20th Legislative District and Freeholder Donald Goncalves, returned recently from its successful economic development trade mission in Portugal. The trip included meetings with the United States Ambassador to Portugal, Gerald McGovern.

“We left for Lisbon with clearly defined objectives of meeting with business leaders and policy makes to build friendships and business relationships,” said Freeholder Goncalves, of Elizabeth. “We are happy to report that we enjoyed a very prosperous trip that we can build on in the future.”

The delegation, which was financed by private business and not at taxpayer expense, was comprised of several leading Union County officials, including Freeholder Goncalves, Assemblyman Suliga, Freeholder Chester Holmes, Rahway Mayor James Kennedy and Elizabeth Councilmen Tony Monteiro and Manny Groom.

Union County businessmen on the journey were Carlos Silva of Silcon Construction of Elizabeth, Bay Torso of Tomasso Oil in Elizabeth, and Helder Mendonca of Elizabeth’s Mendonca & Suarez accounting firm.

The delegation visited the facilities of Expo ‘98, a formerly contaminated refinery site that was remediated and now is a highly visible $3 billion economic development success story.

“Union County is faced with the task of taking our brownfields and turning what was unusable land into property that can be used to create jobs and revenues for our towns,” Assemblyman Suliga said.

“Expo ‘98 is an example of how hard work and foresight can turn brownfields into profitable, useful developments. We were able to see how Portugal accomplished Expo ‘98 and brought some of this knowledge home with us,” he added.

The delegation was invited to attend a session of the Assembly of the Republic, the Portuguese Parliament. When introduced, the members of Portugal’s governing body gave the Union County representatives a standing ovation. From there, the group traveled to the Portuguese Stock Market and held meetings with business leaders.

Ambassador McGovern also hosted a reception in honor of the Union County delegation and in attendance were many of Portugal’s business leaders.

“We spent a great deal of time discussing business opportunities in Portugal and attracting international business to Union County,” said Freeholder Goncalves. “There was a tremendous sharing of information which will benefit both regions as we move forward. There is a mission being put together in Lisbon in which Portuguese business and government leaders will visit Union County in the coming months.”

S. African Ambassador Visits NAACP Chapter

By SHANNON WATERS
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

South African ambassador to the United States, Franklin Sonn, was the guest speaker last Thursday evening at the Plainfield Area Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People’s (NAACP) 57th Annual Freedom Funds Award Dinner held at the Westwood in Garwood.

They group assembled to celebrate the NAACP’s theme of “Preparing Tomorrow’s Leaders Today,” to acknowledge the awards nominees’ commitment to community service and to welcome Ambassador Sonn.

It was noted that Ambassador Sonn promotes community restoration, cultural rebuilding and education. He is also dedicated to the mission of equality. The Ambassador is keen on fostering the partnership between the NAACP and the African National Congress (ANC) because they share similar beliefs and history.

These histories include being depicted as radical and militant groups, despite actually being constructive and moderate organizations.

Both the NAACP and the ANC advocate equality and the political, social and economic rights of blacks. They act as watchdogs and are dedicated to promoting unity among all people.

The NAACP played a significant role during the civil rights movement in ensuring that the United States Constitution was fairly applied to all.

“The ANC took courage from the struggle of the NAACP and colored people to work affirmatively at the leadership level of the government and the people,” said Ambassador Sonn.

Ambassador Sonn stated that he was pleased to be able to speak to the local members of the NAACP so that he could discuss poverty, a subject that he feels is unpopular yet is central to economic justice.

“Poverty is a condition that concerns everyone and can foster social instability. It is a universal condition yet racial stereotypes are subscribed to it. The manifestations of poverty-large families, short-term goals and objectives are used to stigmatize blacks because of their physical, historical and social conditions,” he continued.

He said that, “Wealthy white Europeans realize the injustice of prejudice yet maintain systems and structures that foster deprivation. To be black is often to be poor. Blacks are forcibly subjugated into poverty because they got a late start, and are faced with impediments and a victim-blaming system.”

He outlined steps that the NAACP should take to continue its mission. The first step is to embrace a doctrine against all types of prejudice. According to Ambassador Sonn, to be quiet about prejudice is an injustice to the legacy of the leaders of the NAACP. The next step is to fight poverty.

He declared that, “Because we are politically free, we have a new obligation to social justice - to fight poverty.”

Sharon Robinson-Briggs, the Event Chairwoman, said that the Plainfield Area NAACP Branch was pleased to have Ambassador Sonn as a speaker because his world-renowned stature lent significance to the group and to the Awards Event.

Each year, three people are recognized for their long-term commitment to the community. This year, Anna L. T. Wiggs was recognized for her commitment to the Rose of Sharon Community Church while Charles “Pete” Brown and Edward Long were recognized for their active support of the Plainfield Senior Citizens Program.

County Announces Collection For Household Special Waste

Union County Utilities Authority (UCUA) Chairman James J. Kennedy has announced that the county and the Authority will sponsor two Fall 1998 Household Special Waste Days.

The first event will be held this Saturday, October 24, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the New Providence Public Works Yard on Passaic Street. Household special waste and electronics can be dropped off at this event.

The second event is scheduled for Saturday, November 14, at the Rahway City Hall parking lot on Main Street, also from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

There is no cost to participate; however, pre-registration and proof of Union County residency is required. Contractors are not eligible to take part in these events.

Acceptable household special waste includes oil-based paints and varnishes, anti-freeze, pool chemicals, corrosives and cleaners, pesticides and herbicides, caustics, solvents and thinners, aerosol cans, asphalt sealers, fire extinguishers, flammable liquids and solids, motor oil and motor oil filters, gasoline, transmission fluid, automotive products, batteries (dry cell and lead acid), propane tanks, fluorescent bulbs (unbroken), thermostats, thermometers and mercury switches, small electric appliances with non-removable rechargeable batteries (cordless tools, flashlights, etc. will be accepted).

Containers larger than five gallons, empty containers, unidentified materials, explosives, radioactive material, gas cylinders or polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB) material will not be accepted.

With pre-registration, the county will accept school laboratory waste chemicals at both of these events.

According to UCUA Executive Director, Dr. Joseph Spatola, this program is designed to assist public, parochial and private schools in accessing an effective, environmentally sound, cost-effective method of disposing of unwanted chemical wastes and reagents.

Latex paint will not be accepted at these events. The UCUA has urged people to consider donating nearly full cans of latex paint to community groups.

If the municipality in which an individual lives does not recycle empty steel cans, they may be disposed of with the normal, household trash after the paint is dried out, the UCUA has advised.

If in doubt, county residents are asked to check with the Municipal Coordinator in their town, who may refer them to a local bulky waste facility which accepts empty paint cans.

To register for either Household Special Waste event, please call the UCUA at (732) 382-9400, Extension No. 48, on Monday, Wednesday or Friday between 1 and 4:30 p.m.

Information regarding cancellation of any event due to severe inclement weather may be accessed by calling the UCUA (recording), after 3 p.m. on the Friday before the scheduled event.

Youngsters Sought For Rutgers Study

Babies, toddlers, and children in the Central New Jersey area are being sought for participation in an Early Learning Project sponsored by Rutgers University in New Brunswick.

The age categories are birth to six months, 2½ to 4½ years, and 7 to 10 years old.

The goal of the project, directed by Dr. Carolyn Rovee-Collier and funded by the National Institute of Mental Health, is to gather information about the normal development of learning and memory in the first year of life.

In the course of a study, a researcher visits the infant at home three or four times for 15 to 20 minutes each. During the initial visits, the infant learns to play a game with a colorful mobile or miniature train and then, in the final visit, shows what he or she remembers about the game.

Older children play with a computer touch screen for 45 minutes during one or two visits to the home.

Participants receive a Certificate of Appreciation from Rutgers University, and a final report is sent to the parents when the study is completed.

The project has been featured in Parents, Life, American Health and Good Housekeeping magazines, as well as several television programs.

Parents interested in participating may call the Rutgers Early Learning Project at (732) 445-4819 for more information.

Letters to the Editor

Staffer Says District Should Spend More on Kids Than Labor Decisions

You printed in your September 10 issue a letter from Scotch Plains-Fanwood Board of Education President August Ruggiero.

I find that I must take exception with his implied claim that there was no cost incurred with pursuing a labor matter dealing with five secretaries involving a total of seven and one-half hours of release time to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court.

The first step after the grievance procedure is an arbitration, the board's portion of which came to $905. The simple fees in processing a matter through Superior and Appellate courts are a minimum of $805, according to the Court Clerk's office.

Lastly, Mr. Ruggiero implies that since the school's attorney is under a retainer, the board did not pay for his services. Given the fact that the school's attorney is paid and his salary is based on the amount of work he has done for the school board, anyone can see that he was compensated for his work in this matter.

Emergency Services In Fanwood Cited For Efforts During Storm

Editor's Note: The following letter was sent to Fanwood Mayor Maryanne S. Connelly and the Borough Council with a copy sent to The Times of Scotch Plains and Fanwood.

* * * * *

It has been a month now since the terrible swift storm of Labor Day. Almost immediately all services were mobilized, as evidenced by the sirens of Police and Fire Departments and the Rescue Squad. Within one half hour Public Works Director Ray Manfra and several people from the Department of Public Works (DPW) were out working. All seemed to have worked continuously for days!

Our electricity, cable and telephones are all back and all the debris has gone to the Recycling Center. Yes, homes and cars were damaged, but isn't it a miracle that no one was hurt!

We take the people who serve us for granted. Most times we don't even realize they are there until they are not there. The citizens of Fanwood are indeed fortunate to be served by all of you — Police, Fire, Rescue Squad and DPW.

From one who has been served, I thank you.

Resident 'Outraged' Over Plan to 'Bulldoze' Tamaques for Parking

I am outraged that the town officials would consider bulldozing Tamaques Park in order to add more parking spaces. I have lived in Westfield for eight years and frequent the park.

I have observed that there are two problems with parking. The first problem is that parking is allowed on the circle and the second problem is that people are too lazy to walk the extra 100 yards to use the lots.

I have never seen more than two cars at a time in the lot located by the picnic area.

If town officials don't want to break the contract with the paving company, than they should allocate it somewhere else. I suggest that they build more parking spaces where the "pocket park" was proposed, in the downtown where the Excellent Diner used to be located.

As we all know, downtown parking is at a premium. Put the parking lot where it is needed. Let's keep Tamaques green.

FEELEY, PATERSON, LOOMIS LOOM HEAVY ON 'D'

Raiders' Defense Prevails; Humbles the Tigers, 14-6

By DAVID B. CORBIN

Specialty Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

Junior Dan Loomis and seniors Jim Feeley and Scott Paterson plugged up the center and Nathan Jones along with Matt McCarthy prevented any long Tiger runs as the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School football team won its second game in a row by defeating Linden, 14-6, in Scotch Plains on October 17. Junior half-ceived the opening kickoff on the six-yard line and quickly returned it to the 38-yard line. Within a slash the Tigers, using a strong inside running game, were down to the Raiders' 35. Moments later, the Tigers crept to the 16. From there, the Raider defense got rugged. Feeley, Paterson and Loomis crunched a fourth-and-one attempt by the Tigers.

The Raiders' first offensive sputtered, however, again the Raider offense sputtered and Franzone's punt went out at the Tiger 15.

Both teams' defense prevailed in the first quarter and appeared to hold the upper hand in the second. Paterson stuffed Tiger quarterback Rayford twice and later, the punt sailed to McCarthy who moved the ball to the Tiger 49.

The Raiders offered no offense and neither did the Tigers when they regained possession, thanks to a key defensive play delivered by McCarthy which put the Tigers in a fourth down situation at their own 19.

The midfield turf war continued until Raider Mike intercepted a Tiger toss at the Linden 41 with 2:22 left in the half. On the very next play, the Tigers recovered a Raider fumble at the 42. A pass completion to Calixto Guerra at the Raider 39 and a run by Rayford to the 22 put the Tigers within striking distance. Strike they did! Rayford found Greg Parker in the end zone with 1:01 left in the half. The extra point attempt failed and the Tigers led 6-0.

Now, the Raiders' special heroics were to begin. Jones took the kickoff at the five, shot up through the middle to the 30, then squirted to the right sideline where he escorted the football into the end zone with :40 left on the clock. Franzone's extra point kick was good and the Raiders carried a 7-6 lead into the locker room.

"He (Jones) stayed in the wedge until it began to break down, then he cut to the sidelines to make the big play," stated Raider Head Coach Steve Cicciotelli.

Jones received the kickoff to begin the second half on the seven yard line and returned it to the 33. After the Raiders moved the ball to the 46, Jones carried again, but this time the ball was stripped and recovered by Tiger Sean Garriss at the 49.

Raider defense continued to control in the second half. Paterson made a crushing tackle, then Feeley tossed quarterback Rayford for a big loss. More strong tackling by Loomis, Feeley and McCarthy forced the Tigers to punt. The kick rolled out at the 14. Two plays later, the Tigers recovered another Raider fumble at the 24.

The Tigers moved the ball to within the Raider five, then got penalized five yards for delay of game. Linden attempted to kick a field goal, but Grabel came flying through the Tiger line and blocked the kick. The ball bounced toward midfield where the Raiders got possession at the 35.

After both offenses continued to sputter, the Raiders got another break when Paterson blasted through and recovered a fumble at the Tiger 28.

back Nathan Jones was devastating to the Tigers on offense as he rushed for 135 yards and returned a kickoff 95 yards for the touchdown.

The Tigers to watch carefully were seniors Chris Rayford, Edwin Charlottin and Rashiem Starling and the Raiders began to realize how important it was when Charlottin re-tered, Franzone's punt rolled to the Tiger 38. Again, the Raider defense displayed their stubbornness and the Tigers punted. McCarthy received the punt on the 25 and returned it to the 34.

With a few small gains by Jones and an off sides call against the Tigers, the Raiders got a first down:

TEAM BREAKS RECORD; ELMUCCIO GETS ALL AROUND

Blue Devil Gymnasts Soar; Top Columbia, 106.1-101.25

By DAVID B. CORBIN

Specialty Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

Unity was the answer for the Blue Devil gymnastics girls when they hosted and defeated formidable Columbia High School from Maplewood, 106.1-101.25, in Westfield on October 12. The entire Blue Devil squad was in full force and senior Julie Elmuccio did her thing. Win!

"That broke the school record," exclaimed Blue Devil Head Coach Ellen Kovac about the team score. "The girls deserve a lot of credit for training well and being prepared."

Elmuccio aced the uneven bars with a 9.3 score, the balance beam with a 9.1 score and the all around with an outstanding total of 36.3. In addition, she placed second in the vaulting with an 8.85 and second on the floor exercises with a 9.05.

Elmuccio hit a high-lifting hand-spring and stuck her dismount in the vault. Her beam routine was very impressive, and perhaps, deserved an even better score. Beginning with a side mount to a handstand, she then did a series of poses while in the handstand. Later, she performed several elegant split leaps and turns, then she dazzled the crowd with a round-off to a perfect back flip and finished with a front flip dismount.

"I hit my routine. I expected a little higher score, but I'm happy with my score," answered Elmuccio when asked about her opinion of her score on the balance beam.

"Any time you can get more than a 9.0, it is a very good score," stated Kovac. "It's possible that she could have received a little higher score."

Elmuccio demonstrated beautiful giant swings which included a pirouette and direction change. Also she executed a fine overshoot transfer to the lower bar, then later, she had a fantastic arching layout flyaway dismount.

"Julie's best ever score came two years ago when she totaled 37.6 and last year she was injured and could not compete," stated Kovac. "Her 36.3 was very good and I am happy to see that she is progressing so well."

Laurie Hogan performed a powerful and impressive Tsukahara in a tucked position and stuck the landing in the vaulting which earned her third place with an 8.7. Hogan had a super routine on the unevens which got her a score of 9.1 and a second place in the event. She used a spring board to mount the high bar, then performed a superb overshoot transfer to the lower bar. In addition, she performed double giants and stuck her layout flyaway dismount. Hogan had a 7.9 on the balance beam and scored an 8.05 in the floor exercises.

"I had her do just one vault because her ankle continues to bother her," said Kovac. "And, it affects her on the floor."

Lauren Caravello scored an 8.5 and got plenty of lift on the vault with a half-on, full twisting handspring off maneuver. Her great uneven routine earned her a third place with a 9.0 and her balance beam routine was awarded a second place with an 8.7. Caravello placed third in the all around with a total of 34.8.

"It's only the second time she has performed in the all around and this is

Bulldogs' F-G Block Hands Westfield it's First Loss, 12-9

By DAVID B. CORBIN

Specialty Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

Bulldog Damon Harrison burst through the Blue Devil line and blocked a game-tying field goal attempt and allowed Malcolm X. Shabazz High School to defeat Westfield, 12-9, at Untermann Field in Newark on October 16. In addition, drive killing penalties prevented the Blue Devils from controlling the game. The victory gave the Bulldogs the upper hand in the race for the Watchung Conference National Division title.

Shabazz received the opening kickoff and began its first series of downs at the 33. Quarterback Harrison rolled right for nine yards, then fullback Derek Foster plunged two yards for a first down. Kenjuan Macklin caught a pass from Harrison and was brought down at the Blue Devil 43. Harrison kept for seven yards, then Joe Slocum snagged a pass at the 27. From there, Foster cut left and sliced into the end zone to give Shabazz a 6-0 lead with 8:38 left of the first quarter. The extra point attempt failed.

Senior Blue Devil Lamont Turner immediately put the Blue Devils in great field position by receiving the kickoff at the seven and returning it to the Devil 48. Turner sliced off guard for four yards, then Todd Dowling blasted the Shabazz 39 for a first down. After a two-yard gain from Dowling, Turner slanted right to the 23. Kevin McCormack cut off tackle for three yards.

When all seemed to be working properly, the Blue Devils self-destructed. An illegal man downfield moved the ball back five yards, then a pass completion from Doerr to McCormack at the 11 was nullified due to an illegal block below the waist. The 15-yard penalty, backed the Blue Devils to the 40. The only redeeming factor of the series was that Turner's punt went out of bounds at the Bulldog four.

"We had a scoring opportunity on the opening drive and blew it," stated Blue Devil Head Coach Ed Tranchina. "Shabazz is a good team on defense and you can't blow opportunities like that."

The Blue Devil defense stopped the Bulldogs and forced them to punt. The punt went out of bounds at the Devil 47. On first down, Turnerraced 25 yards to the Bulldog 28. Tom Lee burst to the 23, then plunged to the 20 as the first quarter ended. Misfortune struck again when Doerr's pass was intercepted by Michael Bowe and returned to the Bulldog 28.

Good fortune shifted to the Blue Devils when Greg Jackson recovered a fumble at the Bulldog 30. The Devil offense sputtered and the Bulldogs took over and began to move the ball, but the good fortune remained with the Blue Devils. Rob Albino recovered a Bulldog fumble at the Westfield 44.

Again the offense sputtered, but Turner's punt was downed at the Bulldog one-yard line. Dowling and Turner stuffed Foster's run at the three, then Devin Griffiths and Lee sacked Harrison in the end zone for a safety. With the score, 6-2, the Bulldogs had to kickoff to the Blue Devils from their own 10, due to a personal foul which occurred during the safety.

Blue Devil Maurice Boatwright picked up the kickoff near the Devil 40 and returned it to the Bulldog 35. On first down, Doerr found receiver Jason Merritt over the middle where he was brought down at the 15.

Next, Doerr passed complete to Dowling at the seven, then on the next play, he connected with Merritt in the end zone with just :10 remaining in the half. Doerr's extra point attempt was good and the Blue Devils carried a 9-6 lead into the locker room.

Junior halfback Kristen Salmond scored the first goal of the game, then went on to add two more as the Westfield High School girls soccer team stopped Elizabeth High School, 8-0, in Westfield on October 14. The Blue Devils easily breezed to a 4-0 lead by halftime, then gave their reserves plenty of playing time in the second half.

Salmond nailed the initial goal only about four minutes into the game to begin the scoring landslide. Moments later sophomore Gwyn Lederman blasted a shot which whizzed over the crossbar.

It was quite apparent that Blue Devil goalie Michelle Meglaughlin was going to have a restful afternoon because her offense launched an incessant bombardment upon the Lady Minutemen's goal. The Lady Minutemen fullbacks were unable to turn the Blue Devil attackers toward the sidelines. Attacking from the center, senior Forward Suzanne Heinkel ripped a shot which just went over the cross bar.

Senior Jessica Lutkenhouse penetrated the middle and tapped in the second goal from about 11 yards out. Within 35 seconds, Lederman barged into the middle a punched in the Blue Devils' third goal.

Later in the first half, forward Elisa Cognetti and freshman halfback Jennifer Hayes lodged the ball from the goalie and Hayes bashed a shot which just missed the far post. Seconds later, Salmond alertly came to the ball which slipped out of the goalie's hands and drilled it into the net from just five yards away to put the Blue Devils ahead, 4-0.

All of the Blue Devils seemed to get into the act. Senior Deirdre Lynn fired a shot which just missed, Lederman hit a sizzler which singed the outside of the far post, then Heinkel whacked a shot which was blocked by the exhausted goalie.

Nothing changed in the second half except some of the faces. Now, sophomore Susan Hinds got to observe the game from the goalie position and several of the first string Blue Devil forwards and strikers were rested. The results, however, were the same.

Lutkenhouse blazed her second goal into the far side of the net from about 12 yards out. Continuously, Lutkenhouse dogged the Lady Minutemen goalie. Junior halfback Liza Yannuzzi added her input by zinging a shot past the far post.

Minutes later, Salmond stormed the goal and zapped her third goal into the net to increase the lead to 6-0. Before the game came to an end, Lederman scored her second goal and halfback Jennifer Korecky hit pay dirt.

The Blue Devils upped their record to 8-3-1.

LAVERY SNAGS 3RD IN ALL AROUND Solid Somerville Stops Raiders in Gymnastics

By DAVID B. CORBIN
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

Jamie Day was the guiding light for the Somerville High School girls as they put together a solid team performance and defeated the fine Raider gymnastics team, 104.35-97.85 in Scotch Plains on October 12. Raider freshman Jackie Lavery had some stunning and gutsy performances which earned her third in the all around.

Against the very highly regarded Pioneers, Lavery placed third on the balance beam with an 8.6 and floor exercises with an 8.75, fourth on the uneven bars with an 8.35 and fifth in the vaulting with a mark of 8.35 for an all around total of 34.05.

The gutsy and very powerful Lavery was quite impressive on the balance beam. She displayed her strength and power with her press to a V-split handstand, then tested her balance with various bent-leg positions while still in the handstand. Lavery had graceful split leaps and scales, then performed a very difficult back flip on the four inch beam. Lavery's floor routine consisted of explosive flips, Arabian hand springs, powerful handstands and pirouettes.

On the vault, Lavery performed a handspring with a full-twist. On the uneven bars, Lavery had a full-twisting mount to a kip-up, then highlighted her performance with an uprise, two giant swings and a flyaway.

Raider freshman Lindsay Church had the fourth highest all around total of 32.6. Church placed third on the uneven bars with a score of 8.5 where she highlighted her routine with a beautiful glide kip, double giant swings and a layout flyaway.

In the vaulting, Church took fourth with an 8.55 using a half-on-full twist off handspring. Church also took fourth on the floor with an 8.55.

Freshman Megan Grabel scored an 8.15 in the vault using a half-on-half off handspring. Grabel attacked the uneven bars and performed several fine moves which included a handstand with a half-twist on the low bar and a flyaway dismount. Her routine earned her a 6.9. Grabel also scored a 7.45 on the floor exercises.

Diana Filo scored an 8.1 in the vault, a 7.15 on the uneven bars, a 7.85 on the beam and a 7.65 on the floor exercises. On the uneven bars, Filo had a full-spinning mount and performed several kip-up maneuvers and hip circles to earn her score.

Sophomore Rachel Eannucci scored an 8.1 with her handspring on the vault. Eannucci also scored a 7.15 on the uneven bars.

"It was a good score for us against a strong team like Somerville," explained Raider gymnastics Head Coach Tammy Del Rosario. "Although, we were weak on the beam."

OFFITZER HOMERS AND GETS 5 RBI; LOPEZ HOMERS

Marauders Hush the Thunder; Seize JCC Championship, 19-7

By DAVID B. CORBIN
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

Red Thunder held the upper hand by virtue of being the regular season champs; however, the Marauders seized the opportunity in the playoffs and ran away with the Jewish Community Center Softball League title game, 19-7, at Tamaques Park in Westfield on October 11. Barry Offitzer led the raiding by blasting a three-run homer and ripping a two-run single.

Mark Friedman led off the top of the first with a single over third, Don Merkelson slashed a single to right, then Neal Leitner lashed an RBI single to left.

The Thunder struck for three runs in the bottom of the inning. Eric Weiss chopped a single past third and Ron Abramowitz bopped a single to right-center. After the Marauders pulled off a double play, Gary Wasserman wobbled an infield single toward second. Jay Tischler stepped to the plate and hammered a two-run triple to remote left, then later, an infield error allowed him to score.

The Marauders were temporarily stunned by the "offensive" behavior of the Thunder, but failed to provide any offense in the top of the second. The Thunder followed suit and failed to score in their portion of the inning which allowed the Marauders to regain their senses.

Marshall Feldman ripped a leadoff double and Todd Krell hopped a single over third. Dave Livingston was presumed to have hit an RBI double to center, then Offitzer's bungled grounder to third allowed Krell and Livingston to score.

Down 4-3, the Red Thunder banged out three more runs in the bottom of the third. Jerry Powers reached safely on an error and Lou Safirin singled to center. Steve Baker bashed an RBI single to center and Weiss whacked a two-RBI double to left.

The Marauders answered with three in the fourth to take a 7-6 lead. Leitner scribbled a single past short, Dave Heiden drilled a double to left, then Ethan Kramer knocked a two-RBI double to left. Later, Tom Lopez brought Kramer home with a grounder to the pitcher.

Tischler tapped a single for the Red Thunder, Jon Applebaum banged a single to left, then Larry Fleishman hit into a force play. Mark Stein bounced an RBI single to left to tie the score and Warren Cohen poked a single to left, but outfielder Leitner gunned Fleishman down as he attempted to score.

Elated with the great defensive play, the Marauders roared loudly with a six-run fifth inning. The looting began with singles by Krell and Livingston. Offitzer launched his three-run homer to faraway left field. With the bases empty, Sol Heitner walked then Andy Lawrence looped a single to left. Friedman wiggled an RBI single by short, then Merkelson tomahawked an RBI single past third. Leitner drove in the sixth run of the inning by yanking a single over third.

The Red Thunder was shocked by the Marauders' audacity and failed to score in the fifth and sixth inning. In the meantime, the Marauders jumped their lead to 17-7 with four more runs in the top of the seventh. Barry Levine doubled to left, Krell beat out an infield single and Livingston singled to left. Offitzer smashed his two-run single, Jim Polonsky sacrificed Livingston home, then Heitner singled Offitzer home.

After the Thunder remained silent, the Marauders added a run in the eighth. Leitner grounded a single to short, then Heiden looped a wind-blown RBI double to right.

The Thunder could salvage only a single from Applebaum in the eighth, but the Marauders picked up their 19th run in the ninth when Lopez lambasted a solo homer to deep, deep right.

The storm was over and the Red Thunder's 'rain' of terror became history.

hot dogs, sodas and hamburgers; however, this time they were mesmerized by the utterly fantastic and highly energetic performance given by the Shabazz marching band, majorettes and talented, entertaining drum corps. Performing synchronized dance routines tirelessly throughout, the Shabazz marching band received a huge applause from the fans.

Throughout the third quarter both offenses stalled even though Shabazz got a big break on a questionable interference call. During that quarter, the ever-dangerous Turner grabbed a Bulldog punt at the 12 and returned it 31 yards to the 43; unfortunately, the Blue Devils could not move the ball, then had their punt blocked and recovered by the Bulldogs at the 50.

Later, Jackson recovered another fumble and the Blue Devils got the ball at the 35, but soon gave up possession. Minutes later, McCormack picked up a bungled pitchout attempt by Harrison 47. The next series of offensive plays by both teams were riddled with penalties.

The offensive stalemate ended when Kenjuan Macklin sliced 24 yards for a Bulldog touchdown with 8:35 left in the game. The conversion failed and the Blue Devils trailed, 12-9.

After the Blue Devils self destructed with a painful 15-yard blocking below the waist penalty which included a loss of down, the Devil defense held the Bulldog offense on the following series of downs.

Time was running down and the Blue Devils, from their own 24, moved to the Shabazz 33 on complete passes to Dowling for 16 yards, to Gabe Perez for 20 yards, then to Turner. The penalty inflation continued and the Bulldogs took over.

"We did nothing with the ball in the second half. We didn't deserve to win. We made too many mistakes and had too many penalties," responded Tranchina. "Shabazz also made many mistakes and gave us several opportunities, but we didn't capitalize on them."

With :54 remaining, Merritt blocked a Bulldog punt and the Blue Devils took over at the Shabazz 40. An interference call against the Bulldogs advanced the ball to the 25, then Turner, who caught a short pass in the backfield, glided to the 14 for a first down. Next, Turner rushed to the eight, then Doerr completed to Turner where he was knocked out at the one with only :12 left.

"I ran out on the field and thought that Shabazz called the time out, but the referee said that one of our players called it and that left us with no time outs," pointed out Tranchina.

"We had momentum on our side and I thought that our best chance would be to kick the field goal and send it into overtime," explained Tranchina. "Our kicking game is better than theirs and I figured that we could beat them in overtime."

With no time outs remaining, the Blue Devils opted to go for the field goal and the tie, hoping to win it in overtime. The ball was temporarily juggled by the holder and the attempt was blocked. Shabazz upped its record to 4-1. The Blue Devils slipped to 4-1.

HOLD THAT TIGER...Raider Kristan Serieux, No. 68, makes initial contact with a Tiger as Joe Franzone, No. 5, Ron Jenerette, No. 83, and Scott Paterson, No. 54, close in for the gang tackle.

With a fine second-effort run by Jones, the Raiders advanced the ball to the six. On the first play of the fourth quarter, McDaniel burst through the Tiger line into the end zone; however, the ball was stripped and recovered by a Tiger for a touchback.

Holding on to the slim 7-6 lead, the Raiders began their final offensive. Jones received a Tiger punt at midfield and returned it to the 43. Carries of 13 and four yards by Jones placed the ball on the Tigers' 26 and a face mask call against the Tigers advanced the ball to the 13. Franzone rolled left to the four-yard line, then Jones plunged to the one.

An illegal shift by the Raiders moved the ball back to the six. Jones moved the ball back to the one, then a delay of game penalty brought it back to the six. With only two seconds left in the game, Jones zipped virtually untouched into the end zone. Franzone added the extra point and the Raiders had won their second straight game.

"Our defense played very well. We held them to 31 yards in the second half. They controlled the line," said Ciccotelli. "The one touchdown they had was on blown coverage."

Pleased about the performance of his special teams, Ciccotelli said, "Our special teams played very well. Our punts were good, the wedge worked well and Grabel got through to block the field goal attempt."

Also happy with the offensive line's performance Ciccotelli commented, "Nathan rushed for 135 yards which means that the blocking was good."

The Raiders boosted their record to 2-3 while Linden dropped to 1-4.

Field Hockey Devils Bury Farmers and Panthers

By SARA BURNETT
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

The Westfield High School Blue Devil field hockey team eliminated the competition by defeating Union, 2-1, on October 14 in Union and Roselle Park, 6-1, on October 17 in Westfield heightening their record to 8-1-2. By beating Roselle Park, the Blue Devils have advanced to the semifinal round of the Union County Tournament (UCT).

The Blue Devils picked up the lead early in the second half against Union with a goal scored by left wing Valerie Wicks. The Farmers soon avenged the goal to even the score. The initial Farmer shot was taken from outside the 16-yard circle and was heading out-of-bounds until it ricocheted off the goal post and stopped dead on the goal line. Then, the ball was then tapped in by a Union player to tie the game.

The Blue Devils rebounded quickly, however, and within five minutes another goal was scored by Wicks. Stephanie Flynn and Kelsey III each assisted Wicks with her goals. The loss sunk the Farmers to 2-4-4.

On October 17, the Blue Devils blazed past Roselle Park in the quarterfinal round of the UCT. As the top-seeded team in Union County, the Blue Devils were relentless in their offensive attack. Two goals were netted by Wicks and Allison Cook, while Jessica Wyckoff and Kelsey III each added one goal apiece.

Securing the lead early in the game, the Blue Devils ended the first half with a 3-0 lead. It was only during the second half that the Blue Devils momentarily broke down and allowed the Panthers to score off a corner; however, the Blue Devils continued to dominate and scored three more goals by the end of the game. Paige Corbett and Kristen Leonardis had two assists each and Cook had one. The Blue Devils seized their eighth win as the Panthers plunged to 2-10.

Wicks said, "I'm really happy with the way the team has been playing, and I hope we can fulfill our goal and win the county title."

In both games, the Blue Devil attack was a combined effort by Cook, Wicks, III, Wyckoff, Leonardis, Megan Pollock, Christine Thompson, and Allison Rosenthal. Supporting the offense were halfbacks Liz McKeon, Corbett, and Flynn.

Defenders Lauren Mattes, Laura Bonavita, Sara Burnett, Amanda Pirozzi, Meghan McMahon, Nicole Bentivegna, and Linnea Liscinsky were consistent and only allowed the Union and Roselle Park offense to penetrate the net twice. Goalie Jennifer Woodbury made key saves which kept the Blue Devils in the game.

Coach Margaret McFadden said, "The kids played outstandingly. It was a good start and a nice win. I am looking forward for it to carry over to the semifinal round."

The Blue Devils faced rival Cranford on October 19 and will play Mount St. Mary's today in Westfield at 4:00. The Blue Devils will also play in the semifinal round of the UCT on Saturday, October 24.

SP-F Fire Soccer Clashes With the Clash Boys

The Fire and the Clash of the Scotch Plains-Fanwood Soccer Association second grade division treated their fans to an outstanding game on October 17.

Both teams did an excellent job on offense and on defense. Both teams displayed hustle and great soccer skills throughout the game.

Vincent Bianco turned in another superb performance in goal for the Fire. He came up with several key saves, as he has done all season long. He also amazed the crowd as he used his powerful right foot to clear the ball completely out of his zone. Bianco was helped out by a very solid defense.

Chris McManus continued to come up big from his sweeper position. He, along with John Maxwell, Brian Gerrity, Jimmy Walsh, James Mason and Philip Rosenkrantz supplied a defense that kept the ball in front of them and away from their goal.

Collectively, the defense came up with several steals throughout the game. They then in turn got the ball out to the forwards who constantly attacked the Clash goal.

The forwards, Joseph Del Prete, Jeremy Kaufman, Matt Graziano, Brendan McEvoy, Tom Reade and Blake Van Buskirk hustled over the field all game long.

They used speed and outstanding ball handling skills to keep constant pressure on the Clash goalie. Thanks to some excellent defense supplied by the Clash, however, the Fire's offense was not able to get a score.

Del Prete and Graziano had several chances to score, but were thwarted by the Clash defense.

The Fire finally broke through on the scoreboard when Kaufman made a nice pass to Van Buskirk who put the ball past the Clash goalie for the score.

COMPETING AT NATIONALS...Four local women, Kim Selert, Sue Faulkner, Stacy Frankfort and Karen Mazalewski have achieved what most adult tennis players dream about. They will compete in the USA's national 4.5 tennis championships held in Tucson, Arizona on October 24. These athletes are part of a 4.5 team playing out of Manalapan. They earned the right to compete in the nationals by winning their district and sectional championship. The national competition consists of 16 teams playing doubles and singles in 3 days of intense competition.

Westfield PAL B Defeats Scotch Plains PAL, 14-7

On a October 18, the Westfield Blue Devils PAL B Team traveled to take on the Raiders of Scotch Plains. Westfield won the toss starting on their own 35 yard line.

The Blue Devils went three and out, then an Andrew Garrison punt put the Raiders on their own 40-yard line. On third-and-10, Alex (Kordell) Regenstreich intercepted a Raider pass and returned it to midfield.

On the very next play from offense a 40-yard gain on a sweep by Kirt Giresi brought the ball down to the 10. Two plays later, Bart Walsh exploded out of a perfectly executed counter and scrambled into the end zone to give Westfield a 6-0 lead. Garrison kicked the extra point.

Scotch Plains went three-and-out thanks to a great Westfield defensive effort, led by Adam Trzesniowski, Terrance Bryant, Montel Glasco, and Jan Coccoziello. Before the half ended Westfield attempted a 20-yard field goal that came up just short.

The second half started out with Scotch Plains on their own 35-yard line, but another tough defensive Westfield stand led by Tyshon Blackmon, Rich Brautigam Marc Dowling, Tom Roche, and Brad Trzesniowski left the Raiders only three plays and a punt.

Westfield's three-and-out would be more interesting, after the punt by Garrison the ball took an unusual bounce sending the ball back towards Westfield's line of scrimmage, as the Blue Devils scrambled to down the ball, it appeared that Giresi had dove on the ball and downed it, as the ref. marked the spot of the ball but never blew the whistle, a Raider player quickly picked up the ball and ran 60 yards for a touchdown for the Raiders. The extra point was good and the game was tied 7-7.

Midway through the fourth quarter, Westfield put together an eight-play scoring drive. Great runs by Coccoziello and Bart Walsh brought the Blue Devils to the three, then Coccoziello punched it in for the touchdown. Garrison's point-after-touchdown was good and that made the score 14-7.

Late in the game Andrew Shaffer, Marc Dowling, Rich Brautigam and Tom Roche all ran the ball with significant gains to secure the win.

The Blue Devils record improved to 5-0 and will host Perth Amboy on October 25 at the High School Stadium.

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood Jazz U-11 girls soccer team traveled to Montclair to tangle with the Montclair Leopards on October 18. The Jazz jumped out to early 2-0 lead, but the Leopards clawed their way back in the second half to earn a 2-2 tie.

The first goal for the Jazz was set up nicely by Lauren Mains as she dodged her way through the middle of the field and found Katie Van Haasteren open on the left side. Upon receiving the pass, Van Haasteren immediately chipped the ball over to the right side where Shannon Hauser lined up a clear shot and fired in goal number one.

Hauser scored again midway in the first half when she was set up by Becca McGuire who threaded an indirect free kick through the Montclair defense and onto the foot of Mains in the middle. Mains sent the ball to the right wing where Hauser knocked in goal number two.

The Jazz had another scoring opportunity late in the first half when Jessica Churgin worked the ball out of the right corner and found McGuire open for a shot that just bounced wide. Montclair got on the board with a goal at the 26 minute mark, but the Jazz defense tightened as Meaghan Kelly and Lauren Hercel lassoed the Leopards from their full-back positions to prevent any further first-half scoring.

Montclair scored early in the second half to tie the score and then withstood a barrage of Jazz shots by Gabby Falco and her linemates Mains and Hauser.

One final scoring opportunity was set up by some determined work by Lindsey Fitzgerald, who stole the ball, passed it to McGuire who blasted a long shot that was deflected away.

Westfield Killer Bees Defeat Rahway Lightning, 4-0

The Westfield Killer Bees combined a strong offensive effort with a rock solid defense to defeat the Rahway Lightning on October 18.

In the first half, fullbacks Amanda Dickson and Emily MacNeil, stoppers Marykate Maher and Hannah Burke, and sweepers Jessie Elkoury and Gio Palatucci, worked effectively to blunt the offensive challenges by Rahway.

Most impressive was the smart play of the Bees. For example, rather than just clearing the ball, time and again the defense controlled the ball into space so they could make a solid pass to the outside halfbacks Ali Carter, Jessica Schor, Stephanie Bridgeman, and Justine Palme.

The few shots on goal were easily saved by first half keeper Annie Onishi. However, the highlight of the Rahway game was the first half offensive barrage by the Bees.

The offense started with Bridgeman, Lauren Purdy and, Caroline Cariste who scored early in the quarter off a free kick by MacNeil. Although the kick was deflected by a Rahway defender, Bridgeman recovered the ball.

The Rahway goalie set up for a shot to the near side and was unprepared for Bridgeman's cross to the far post where Purdy tapped in the first goal. During the first quarter, Palatucci played a very strong center half to keep the pressure on the Rahway defense. Late in the first quarter she lofted a shot towards the right post, although the Rahway keeper seemed to be well positioned, Purdy received the pass, made a quick

The SPF Strikers defeated the Somerset Hills Wizards 3-2 on October 11. The Strikers scored in the first thirteen seconds of the game Tab a Michael DiVizio goal on an assist by Daniel LiVolsi Skilled defense on the part of Tommy Sutter and Ryan Krueger kept to ball in Wizard territory to enable LiVolsi and DiVizio to again combined for DiVizio's second goal.

The Wizards tried to make some magic only to be repelled with two great saves by Taylor Molinaro to hold the Wizards scoreless at the end of the first quarter.

In the second quarter, the Strikers kept up the offensive pressure with a big left foot attempt by Rob Cunningham. Tyler Stanek followed with two more big attempts on the Wizard goal. Eddie Kahn and Timmy Leischner were outstanding at defense, holding the Wizards scoreless at the half.

In the third quarter, the Wizards came on strong. Brandon Reddington was stupendous in goal, blocking several Wizard attempts. Jeff Stuart kept the offensive pressure going for the Strikers with a tremendous attempt on goal.

The Strikers' scored when DiVizio dealt a hat trick to make it 3-0.

S. P.-F. Kindergarten Soccer League Results

The Raptors are chasing off all opponents this fall. In a recent game, Brendan Dunphy and Cara Gaynor scored goals with assistance from Tommy Bell and Tyler Terens. Trevor Cohen's energy throughout the game was a big factor.

Kelly Missal and Jessie Hibel were solid on defense. Matthew Manns and Kyle Bimbaum both did outstanding jobs at goalie. It was a true team effort, greatly assisted by the parents who kept up their encouraging cheers the whole game.

The Orange Crush had a great day on offense thanks to the dynamic play of Nowell Whitehouse (three goals), Justin Weissbrod (three goals) and Brian Fischer (one goal). Justin Scholar and Michael Meiselman also contributed to the offensive drives.

Goalie Karalyn Lepri did a great job keeping the ball out of the net. She was assisted by defenders Alexander Fuchsman and Brianna Mahoney. Zachary Harper's great hustle and passing contributed to the team's overall success.

The Red Fireballs have been burning up the competition with their quick offense and rock-solid defense. On offense, Teddy Udelsman, David Pinkowski and Courtney Zyla have all scored goals. Sean Reilly and Diane Francoulon have excelled at midfield.

Jonah Offitzer's strong foot has been keeping the ball out of Fireball territory. The Fireballs success can be attributed to their enthusiastic group of rotating goalies, which include Connor Brown and Chris Gillman.

The Green Dragons have been off to a great start. Led by Anthony Aranco, Julia Babis and Lauren Berk up front, the Green Dragons have been hard to beat. With Laren Buckley, Meghan Cunningham, Kyle D'Amore and Benjamin Fuerst in the midfield, and a back line consisting of Benjamin Gechtman, Evelyn Klotz, Andrew Naugle, Brianna Femma and Ryann Linek, the season promises to be a great experience

Congressman Franks, Mrs. Vernick Unveil Senior Tax Relief Plan

ployed to help pay their taxes in their retirement years.

The three-term Congressman, who is being challenged by Fanwood Mayor Maryanne S. Connelly in his reelection bid this year, said the goal of the legislation is to allow seniors to stay in their homes after retirement, instead of being forced to move because they cannot afford to pay their property taxes.

"Living in an area where home prices are exorbitant, the property tax burden can be greater than many seniors can bear — even if they have paid off their mortgage and own their house free and clear," Congressman Franks explained.

To be eligible to deduct property taxes, a senior would have to be at least 65. Also, only taxes on a principal residence could be deducted.

As an example, a senior with an income of either $20,000 or $30,000 and $3,000 in property taxes could save $450 in federal income taxes.

The Senior Property Tax IRA would enable individuals at any age to deposit up to $2,000 a year, or $4,000 for a couple, into a tax-free account to be used solely for future property taxes.

Starting at age 59½, a senior could begin withdrawing the money, tax free, to pay their property taxes.

"This legislation would allow homeowners — at any stage of their lives — to set aside a property tax payment nest egg for their retirement years," said Congressman Franks.

In her proposal back in 1994, when she first ran for Town Council, Mrs. Vernick offered a four-part plan to help seniors with property taxes.

Plan A was an insured annuity type that would cover the annual increase in property taxes for a selected term of five or more years beyond the age of 65. Plan B's fund would have paid the total tax for the term of the plan, while Plan C was for a single payment as part of the other two plans.

The fourth part of the Westfield Cares Plan called for a 10 percent reduction of the increase in property taxes for all residents age 65 to 74. In order to make up for the reduction in tax rates generated by seniors, the plan would have resulted in non-seniors paying an average increase of $17 in Westfield property tax bills.

Mrs. Vernick said she met with hundreds of seniors in 1994 who expressed a common theme that they were being forced out of their homes because of high taxes.

"It was heartbreaking, and I knew that something had to be done to address this long-standing problem," she remarked. "Many retirement incomes are not large enough to pay for living in towns like Westfield and long-term residents are forced to leave," Mrs. Vernick added.

"Westfield suffers when this happens," she continued during the press conference, which was held at the Westfield Municipal Building. "We lose one of our greatest assets, the diversity of age groups, which is part of what makes Westfield a great place to live."

Congressman Franks said his legislation "goes further than any bill on the Federal level to provide relief for the 580,000 senior homeowners in New Jersey."

He said the state and Federal governments can help lessen the burden on local property taxes by funding mandated programs they put on municipalities.

Mr. Franks noted that in 1980 he introduced the version of the "State Mandate, State Pay Concept" which only recently has been signed into law. He also referred to a commission established by Governor Christine Todd Whitman to look at the property tax situation in New Jersey.

Among the suggestions contained in the commission's report was shared municipal services and other forms of consolidating government services.

In attendance at the press conference were several senior citizens, all of whom indicated they felt the legislation was more geared to younger people than senior citizens already on fixed incomes.

"I don't think it (the legislation) goes far enough," said Doris Williams, a former 32-year Westfield resident forced to move to North Carolina due to spiraling property taxes in Westfield.

"I don't think it's going to do much for senior citizens; I'm talking about senior seniors, not 60 to 65; I'm talking about 70 and over," she said. "They've already paid their dues. They've paid taxes in this town for ever and ever and they are not getting any break at all," Mrs. Williams observed.

Meanwhile, her friend Edith Keough, a 44-year town resident who lives on Westbrook Road, said the proposed legislation is a "wonderful way" for younger generations to put away money for taxes in years to come. However, she said it has little impact on today's seniors.

Mrs. Williams noted that she raised a family in town only to discover her adult children cannot afford to buy a house and pay taxes in Westfield.

Bill Brown of Hort Street, a 46-year resident, reiterated the sentiments of the other seniors in stating the legislation helps younger people.

"For senior citizens, what the hell good is it going to do them? They don't have the money now. They're not working. They can't put the few thousand (dollars) away in advance. It's impossible," he said.

Sixty-year plus resident Owen McWilliams, a one-time resident of Hort Street now living on Westbrook Road, said he does not believe the Federal government has much control or, for that matter, cares about lowering property taxes.

He said this action must be taken at the local government level.

Mrs. Vernick said that, "It took this many years, but many different groups, companies and universities that Bob Franks and his staff and myself have spoken with feel that this plan should be very well received."

Congressman Franks said he hopes the legislation will be passed in the next session of Congress.

STANDING FIRM....Westfield Fourth Ward Town Council Republican Council candidate Tom Cusimano is shown here in Tamaques Park in Westfield. Mr. Cusimano has come out against a plan to build additional parking lots at the park.

Tom Cusimano Opposed To New Lots at Tamaques

WESTFIELD — Fourth Ward Republican candidate for the Westfield Town Council Candidate, Tom Cusimano, said he feels that there is a marked increase in town-wide activities at Tamaques Park that has caused increased traffic in the Fourth Ward.

"I have, and will continue, to be very active in Westfield athletic programs such as soccer, softball and baseball," said Mr. Cusimano, currently a Commissioner on the Westfield Recreation Commission.

"Thus, I am very aware that Tamaques Park is the center for many town-wide athletic and special events. During my door-to-door campaign, many residents in the Tamaques Park area (Village Green, New England Drive, Seward Street, Dickson Drive) have expressed to me their concern as to the increased activity at Tamaques Park.

"This increased activity results in a heavy increase in traffic in and around the park area. In addition, the New England Village Association and residents near the park have expressed their concern as to the proposed increase in parking spaces at Tamaques Park. In fact, they attended a recent Recreation Commission Meeting to personally express their views.

"I support their position and I voted against the expanded parking proposal at this meeting," Mr. Cusimano stated.

The candidate noted that Tamaques Park attracts many out-of-town visitors and users, and some of the increased activity can be traced to these sources. The increase in number of special races and events at the park also causes nearby residents to experience more traffic, pollution and litter.

The Fourth Ward is the home of the Conservation Center and the town swimming pool which causes heavier traffic, Mr. Cusimano noted.

"I fully support the many excellent athletic programs in the town. I feel it is time to revisit the possibility of utilizing more of Westfield's available park area for active sports programs, thus, alleviating and reducing the activity and increased traffic at Tamaques Park.

"If elected to Town Council, I intend to pursue and actively resolve this problem," Mr. Cusimano concluded.

Councilman Walsh Urges Campaign Code of Ethics

John J. Walsh

WESTFIELD — Westfield Third Ward Democratic Councilman John J. Walsh reacted this week to the recent polling controversy by suggesting that Westfield be in the forefront of a new era of campaign politics.

Councilman Walsh proposed that a committee be formed to create a non-binding ethical code to which candidates would voluntarily adhere and which avoids the negativism of modern politics.

"I definitely agree with everyone who has said the polling question about a candidate's spouse is way out of bounds," Mr. Walsh remarked. "Equally, I understand, but do not agree with, the rationale behind the question: the Mayor's campaign was looking to counter anticipated Republican negative materials which are always dropped on doorsteps at the last minute, affect the election and then are quickly forgotten after the election.

"The perception on the Democratic side is that the Republicans always seem to get the last punch under the belt without anybody looking," said Councilman Walsh.

This does not excuse retaliation by the Democrats, according to Mr. Walsh, who believes that the creation of a voluntary code of ethics would break the "dysfunctional chain of retaliation" that seems to escalate each election.

Councilman Walsh said the campaign code of ethics should invite each candidate to pledge that the candidate will neither cause nor allow any communication with which his or her name is associated to be disseminated which in any way attacks or criticizes the character, beliefs or actions of any other candidate or anyone affiliated with the candidate, including wife and family.

Under Councilman Walsh's proposal, the candidate would further pledge only to propose positive ideas, beliefs and proposals which suggest that he or she is the superior candidate and to avoid statements which suggest that the opponent is an inferior candidate.

He said he recognizes that such a code would, in certain instances, limit legitimate debate that may benefit the town by bringing to light certain harmful practices that should be eliminated.

"The most recent example I can think of is the politics regarding the placement of town's insurance. There have been several instances in which allegations that improper influences were at work with the placement.

"The town needs to hear about such practices, even though such discussion could be characterized as negative campaigning. The challenge in creating such an ethical code is to segregate the relevant issues from the irrelevant ones in the Pandora's box where they belong," said Mr. Walsh, who is seeking a second term on the council.

Councilman Walsh does not believe that polling is inherently harmful. He pointed out that in a recent poll taken by the Mayor's campaign, 83 percent of Westfield believes that the town is moving in the right direction.

"That finding greatly supports all that we have been doing," Mr. Walsh commented.

"Credit has to go to Democrats and Republicans alike in getting such a consensus, but in sharing such credit, the Republicans have to admit that such a result occurred during the tenure of a Democratic Mayor," he concluded.

INCUMBENTS RESPOND TO GOP REPORT

Democrats Say They Have No Plans to Sell Runnells Spec. Hospital

By SONIA OWCHARI W
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader and The Times

Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders Chairman Daniel P. Sullivan and Freeholders Mary P. Rutolo and Lewis Mingo, Jr., this week responded to criticisms from their Republican opponents in the upcoming election over the debt incurred by the county for the operation of Runnells Specialized Hospital in Berkeley Heights.

The Democratic Freeholders addressed the recent reports by their Republican opponents of "draining county tax-dollars" during their press conference held Tuesday at the hospital.

Freeholder Sullivan announced that as long as the Democrats control the board, they have no intentions of selling the hospital as proposed by opponents — Juan Fernandez, George Gore and Andrew MacDonald.

Mr. Sullivan also commented that this was "a war on seniors by privatizing Runnells."

Freeholder Sullivan also added that the Republican account of a "$7 million and $12 million" deficit at Runnells is inaccurate. According to the Freeholders, Runnells has been managed fiscally sound.

"Runnells Hospital has an operating budget of nearly $26 million, with revenues totaling nearly $25 million, creating an operating deficit of slightly more than $1 million," Freeholder Sullivan explained.

Mr. Sullivan further commented that by comparison, the deficit is not that bad. Runnells policy is not to turn down anyone into its facility for care.

The Freeholders said in a joint statement that their goal is "quality of care and the high level of care provided to residents."

Freeholder Democrats fear that since Runnells sits on 45 acres of prime real estate that it could be attractive to potential developers in addition to its ideal location to Route 78.

Mr. Sullivan stressed that the quality of patient care at Runnells has always been the focal point for its county residents since they are the "freshest part of our community."

"Our concern is to provide quality care for Union County senior residents who have already contributed to society and now need our help," said Mr. Sullivan.

Runnells was noted by another panel speaker as the "working class hospital." Runnells has been county run since 1912 and has a doctor on-call 24-hours-a-day and seven-days-a-week and two registered nurses. In addition there are countless numbers of volunteers who contribute daily to the hospital needs and their patients.

"At times when everything is closing down, being compassionate is what we are about and reducing deficit and managing county business," said Freeholder Lewis Mingo, Jr.

Privatization of Runnells could mean negligent care on senior citizens and "they are the frailest part of the county," he added.

Carl A. Salisbury Weighs In on Downtown Parking; Supports Deck on Conditions

Carl A. Salisbury

WESTFIELD - Carl A. Salisbury, the Democratic Candidate for First Ward Council in Westfield, stated this week that, "Our parking problems in Westfield suffer from a condition I call 'paralysis by analysis.'"

He pointed out that, "In 1995, the Town Council commissioned a task force to study downtown parking. It was the sixth such study done since 1987. The 1995 report has many helpful recommendations.

"Among them is stricter enforcement of the anti-meter feeding ordinance. In 1990, 25,000 parking tickets were handed out in Westfield. In 1995, that total went down to 9,000. If only 50 percent of the meter feeders in town (employees and shoppers who illegally feed parking meters beyond the two-hour limit) had been ticketed, it would have done two things: it would have freed up about 750 on-street parking spaces per day for shoppers downtown; and it would have resulted in about 25,000 parking tickets being issued, for an increase in revenue of $300,000.

"That $300,000 could be used as an initial investment in a parking deck," Mr. Salisbury explained.

Mr. Salisbury noted that if all of the Westfield Parking Task Force's recommendations are implemented, "it would help to resolve, in the short run, some of the downtown and commuter parking problems.

"It would free up hundreds of on-street parking spaces per day and dozens of spaces at the South Street Train Station parking lot, helping to alleviate the intolerable waiting list for Train Station parking permits."

"With the opening of the new national retail stores this fall, holiday season is going to bring gridlock to our downtown. That is both a quality-of-life problem and an economic one," the candidate said.

"If people cannot find parking, they simply won't use downtown Westfield to shop. That puts at risk the vibrant downtown that the council, the special improvement district, and the Chamber of Commerce have worked so hard to build. No one I know wants to see property values decrease because of vacant store fronts. We simply cannot go back to the days of 22 percent vacancies," the candidate explained.

Mr. Salisbury said he would support a plan to build a parking deck on the following three conditions: "First, it has to be financed with the help of investment by merchants and landlords — the people who stand to benefit most from a deck.

"I envision merchants and landlords bearing 60 percent of the cost of the deck, with the amounts determined on a sliding scale based upon proximity to the deck and annual sales.

"A bond issue would finance the rest. Second, income from parking receipts would be used to pay back the initial investments made by the merchants, landlords, and bond holders. In the three years following the payoff of the bond, there would be a mandatory tax cut equal to the amount per house-

Councilman Goldman Committed to Town SID

WESTFIELD — Westfield Fourth Ward Councilman Lawrence A. Goldman emphasized his commitment to Westfield's downtown special improvement district as he continued his campaign for reelection.

"When I walked door-to-door two years ago the then questionable state of downtown Westfield was clearly a dominant issue on peoples' minds. The turnaround in two years has been quite impressive," Mr. Goldman observed.

The Councilman noted that immediately after being elected in 1996 he and Mayor-elect Thomas C. Jardim started to attend meetings of the "Save the Rialto Committee," a citizens group organized under the Main Street Organization, predecessor to the special improvement district.

"I disagreed with the hands-off attitude of the then governing body. Keeping the Rialto Theater open was extremely important to most people with whom I spoke, and I believed that public sentiment and the importance of the theater to the vitality of the downtown warranted a show of Support for the effort of the citizens' group," Councilman Goldman said.

Councilman Goldman added that he also started attending meetings of the newly organized Board of Directors of the Downtown Westfield Corporation (the special improvement district governing body) after becoming a Councilman, and ultimately was elected by the Town Council to become its voting representative on the SID Board.

"I had supported the concept of a special improvement district, but disagreed with certain aspects of the initial proposal presented by the Main Street organization to the Town Council in early 1996. I expressed my views as a candidate in 1996 and ultimately my concerns were addressed satisfactorily," he stated.

He elaborated by explaining his disagreement with an original proposal that would have increased taxes on residential properties town-wide to support SID operations.

"I continue to believe that the downtown property owners and business operators are the direct beneficiaries of the business development, promotions and design activities of the SID and they ought to pay for the annual operating costs," he stated.

Freeholder Republican Slate Questions Democrats Claim Of '97, '98 Accomplishments

"During this campaign, our opponents have bragged about the jobs the 9-0 Democrat controlled Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders have brought into the county," said Republican Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders candidates Juan Fernandez, Andrew MacDonald and George Gore in their campaign weekly press statement.

"They also constantly remind us that they did not raise county taxes in 1997 and even decreased taxes slightly in 1998. Unfortunately, for Union County taxpayers, once you take a long, hard look at these so-called accomplishments things are not quite as rosy as the Democrats claim.

"In fact, it appears that most of the jobs the Democrats brought into the county were those they created in county government for their family, friends and campaign contributors," the candidates stated.

"The (Daniel P.) Sullivan controlled Freeholder Board has placed great emphasis on achievement they have made in the area of economic development of the county. But just what they accomplished?

Citing a 1997 Department of Commerce report, the Republicans indicated that 105 out-of-state companies relocated to New Jersey in 1997. Those 105 companies brought 14,826 jobs into the county. Of these 14,826 jobs, only 254 (less than 2 percent) came into Union County. By comparison, they said 17 percent of those jobs went to Bergen County, 11 percent to Middlesex County, 8 percent to Hudson County and 4 percent to Essex County.

"All those around the world, and the 9-0 Democrat Freeholders delivered of 254 jobs, a little more than 12 jobs per county municipality. Nothing to brag about, but they do.

"The Sullivan Freeholders did indeed deliver a 'no tax increase' budget in 1997, but they funded that budget by using $21.4 million of surplus that had been saved by the previous Republican controlled board. The Republicans were able to accumulate that surplus by eliminating costly, unnecessary county jobs and waste in spending," the candidates continued in their statement.

"The Democrats took control in 1997 and immediately re-instituted those unnecessary county jobs and created new ones for their friends and family. Even with anticipated revenues down by $2.7 million dollars, the Democrats expanded the county payroll with names connected to those power in power.

"In 1998, with anticipated revenue still down, the Democrats increased spending by $7 million, increasing the budget to $278.9 million, and increasing taxes. How does a government create new government jobs, despite shrinking revenue, and not increase taxes. Easy. Just eat into the surplus created by the more efficient Republican Freeholder Board," the candidates said in their combined release.

"Unfortunately, sooner or later the taxpayer is going to pay for these Democrat directed excesses. The 9-0 Democratic Freeholder board is doing nothing to generate revenue because they are too busy spending your tax dollars to undo every tax saving program instituted by the previous Republican controlled board," the Republican concluded in their final release of the campaign.

Noreen Lund Enters Final Phase of Her Campaign

WESTFIELD — Noreen Lund, Republican candidate the Third Ward Westfield Town Council seat, entered into the final phase of her campaign this week by emphasizing the reasons she is seeking her first elective office and by outlining her plans if she is elected.

"I have lived on the south side of Westfield all my life. I grew up in the Third Ward. My parents, Tony and Mildred Bianco, were life-long residents until my father retired from his business, Colonial Barbershop, on East Broad Street.

Noreen Lund

"I believe I understand the challenges facing the Third Ward more intensely than any other candidate simply because I have such a long perspective of where we have been," the candidate said.

Ms. Lund pointed to the major transportation arteries on the south side of town as requiring special attention from the Third Ward Town Council member.

"The Westfield Train Station has undergone this wonderful restoration, but, unfortunately, the neglect of South Avenue is more apparent. The flower beds and plants surrounding the parking area should be updated and maintained to enhance the new exterior. However, the only way any of these improvements will occur is if the Third Ward Council member makes them his/her priority," the candidate stated.

Central Avenue, Ms. Lund emphasized, is an even sadder story. "Central Avenue is a 'gateway' to Westfield, yet there is no detailed plan to help rejuvenate this critical asset. Look how much the area improved just by repainting the railroad underpass. I have worked with the residents in the area to use the Exterior Property Maintenance Code, to help address some of the deteriorated conditions of buildings on Central Avenue.

"If I am elected on November 3, I will work with local businesses, landlords, and residents to develop a comprehensive strategic plan to redevelop these areas. This effort would benefit everyone," Ms. Lund noted.

The candidate observed that as the central business district (CBD) completed its evolution, with national chain stores, the South Avenue and Central Avenue shopping area seems to be picking up more of the traditional shops.

"Part of the Third Ward's charm is the local flavor of the bakeries, merchants, coffee shops, and services that cater to so many of the day-to-day needs of Westfield. Clearly the redevelopment of the CBD is critical, but now the town's attention should shift to the South and Central Avenues.

"It is simply a matter of equity, and if I am elected I will make sure that this area becomes the priority that it should be," the candidate stated.

Electing Ms. Lund vowed to make Westfield town government work for everyone in the Third Ward.

"I work as a substitute nurse in the Westfield schools. I am in Westfield everyday. Therefore, I can meet with local officials when it is necessary to advocate for my neighbors, and make sure that the services are being delivered as promised," she said.

Ms. Lund concluded by thanking her neighbors for the opportunity to run for Westfield Town Council, stating that, she has "met so many wonderful people during this campaign."

Paulette Coronato Says Live Telecast With Phone Link is 'Open Government'

SCOTCH PLAINS — "I could be wrong, but isn't the ultimate test of an elected official his or her ability to conduct the affairs of government during a live TV broadcast? With an audience? Then take questions from that TV audience via a direct link telephone line?" asks Republican Scotch Plains Township Council candidate Paulette Coronato, who's lived in the township for 21 years.

"There have been many politicians on both sides of the aisle who have admired the initiative of our current Mayor, Joan Papen," explained Ms. Coronato.

"Under her Republican leadership, Scotch Plains became one of the first municipalities in the state to broadcast its council meetings live.

"I find it ironic, then, that our opponents are calling for 'open government,' when that door has never been closed. They themselves have not been denied the opportunity either in the past or during the campaign, to air their questions and comments at the broadcasts of the council meetings.

"On the other hand, although all three of our opponents just recently surfaced at the council meetings, it is apparent that they are not aware of the many township communications outreach efforts, such as the special mailing on taxes, the township newsletters and the Recreation Commission roster of services," Ms. Coronato explained.

"In addition these people who call for 'open government' — our opponents — have caused the League of Women Voters sponsored debate to be canceled. After years of accepting questions from the floor, as does the incumbent Republican council candidate, this year our opponents refused an open debate.

"They would only participate if the responses required of them were to written questions previously submitted and approved," Ms. Coronato explained. "We, on the other hand, were ready to participate in an open debate."

"This week my running mate, Gail Iammatteo, detailed the many volunteer services that enhance the quality of life in Scotch Plains," indicated Ms. Coronato, a member of the Scotch Plains Board of Adjustment and former member of the Planning Board.

"I should not have to point out to our opponents the fact that close to 200 volunteers participate in activities in our township. These range from the Recreation Commission to the Environmental Commission to Cultural Arts to the Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squads, to the Library Board and the Cultural Arts Committee," the candidate explained.

"I congratulate the Republican council leadership on the fact that they have continually encouraged participation no matter what a person's party affiliation is. In cases where the decision for inclusion on these various committees lies with the council, the main criteria for appointment is the resident's willingness to serve and his/her suitability to the service he/she is offering to provide," Ms. Coronato continued.

"Thus, many Democrats and Independents have been appointed to serve on these committees and commissions. In fact, many have risen to leadership positions," Ms. Coronato stated.

"Compare Scotch Plains to some other Union County towns, where vital volunteer services such as the Fire Department and Rescue Squads are hard pressed to fulfill residents' needs due to the lack of volunteers.

"I do feel that the spirit of 'open Government' is one of the reasons why newcomers are attracted to our town and once they move here, are inclined to stay on as long-term residents," Ms. Coronato concluded.

LIKE MOTHER, LIKE SON...When it comes to public service, this mother and son team have a common goal. Paulette Coronato of Scotch Plains and her son, Will Coronato of Fanwood, are running for council seats on the Republican line in their respective towns.

GAINING SUPPORT...Fanwood Borough Councilwoman Karen Schurtz and her Democratic runningmate Kathy Mitchell candidates for the Fanwood Borough Council, recently received contributions from Political Action Committee share funds of the Greater Union County Association of Realtors. On hand for the presentation of the check, left to right, were: Patricia Plante of Fanwood, a Realtor Associate with Burgdorff-ERA in Westfield; Mary Ellen O'Boyle, Chairwoman of the Realtor Political Action Committee; Roger Love, President of the Greater Union County Association of Realtors; Ms. Mitchell and Councilwoman Schurtz. The campaign funds are made possible through Realtors Political Action Committee collections from members of the local Board of Realtors and the New Jersey Association of Realtors to candidates who they feel will further the interests of the real estate community, as a whole.

Councilman Gruba Vows To Continue Supporting Efforts in Business District

WESTFIELD — "When the Town Council created the special improvement district and the Downtown Westfield Corporation, the mechanism for the revitalization of our downtown was put in place," Westfield Republican Second Ward Councilman James J. Gruba, seeking reelection, said this week.

"The many restaurants and retail establishments which renovated their facilities and opened new locations have substantially enhanced the business district. I will continue to support the good work that is being done to enhance our commercial district and attract businesses and shoppers to our town," said Councilman Gruba.

He continued by stating, "The resolution of our parking needs is key to this downtown vitality. With my support, the Town Council will develop the best possible plan to provide adequate and convenient parking for shoppers, our Westfield commuters, and downtown employees."

"With the many young, new families arriving in town, the use of our parks, athletic fields and playgrounds has increased. The current capital budget of the town includes money for enlargement and improvement of these facilities, and we will continue to allocate funds so that the recreational life of our residents will be second to none.

"In addition to those important areas of our town life, we will provide the most efficient leaf collection and snow removal for our residents," noted Councilman Gruba.

"Road construction and maintenance will be significantly improved in the years ahead. The present council has approved a program of reconstruction and repair that uses new methods for this work. The result of this program will be more effective, smoother, and safer roads in our neighborhoods," he explained.

Speaking as Chairman of the Town Council's Finance Committee, Councilman Gruba expressed confidence that the improvements he cited can be provided while controlling property taxes in a responsible manner.

Second Ward residents who have opinions and comments can reach Councilman Gruba by calling him at (908) 233-0235 or by Fax at (908) 518-0482.

SP Democrat Candidates Consider Overcrowding In Local School System

SCOTCH PLAINS - "A lack of long range planning by the all-Republican council is a primary cause for the present school overcrowding crisis," stated Franklin P. Donatelli, Tarquin Jay Bromley, and Geri Morgan Samuel, Democratic candidates for Scotch Plains Township Council in their last campaign release before the Tuesday, November 3 issue.

"The school enrollment crisis is another example on a growing list of lost opportunities that the Township Council should have acted upon," they stated in a joint statement.

Mr. Donatelli commented, "As the all-Republican council let one developer after another build more and more dwelling units, the council failed to meet with the school board to prepare for the onslaught of new pupils. Had the council practiced the basics of good planning it would have provided the school board with essential demographic data that would have allowed the board to develop a timely plan for the burgeoning number of students."

"The board needed to know the number of dwelling units being constructed, the number of bedrooms per dwelling, and the approximate selling price. These factors were needed in order to project increased enrollment. But it didn't happen," explained Mr. Donatelli.

Mr. Bromley added, "As a result, the school board is forced to look at many options. One includes converting Terrill Middle School to a third, south side elementary school. This could have a significant negative impact on property values and lead to cramped quarters at Park Middle School."

"Both north side and south side students will bear the impact of this. But the board has been left few options due to council's poor planning," he stated.

"Elementary enrollment climbed from 1,801 students in the 1993-1994 school year 2,194 pupils at the close of school this past June. That's an increase of nearly 400 pupils. Interim measures to deal with the surge in pupils might include locating trailer classrooms at some school sites and town-wide redistricting. These choices," emphasized Mr. Bromley, "wouldn't have to be considered had council planned adequately and sat down with the school board years ago."

Mrs. Samuel stressed that, "The Democrats Point to Success Of Cutting County Taxes While Maintaining Services

This year, the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders dedicated itself to several important goals: cutting taxes, bringing new jobs and economic opportunities to residents, improving access to education countywide, and improving the county's parks and recreational areas.

Democratic Freeholders Daniel P. Sullivan of Elizabeth, who is Chairman of the Freeholder Board; Lewis Mingo, Jr. of Plainfield and Mary Ruotolo of Westfield said they have led the county in areas that make a difference in the lives of Union County's 500,000 residents.

"We believe that county government touches the lives of residents every day," said Freeholder Sullivan. "The voters of Union County chose this Freeholder Board because they wanted to see real results. They wanted a county that works hard to improve their lives and the lives of their children."

The Democratic Freeholder slate noted that for the second straight year, the Freeholder board has cut county property tax rate. This year's $1.5 million tax cut brings the county's portion of property taxes down to their lowest level since 1994.

"Even with the $1.5 million tax cut, this Freeholder board has maintained and improved services to residents, taken on much-needed repairs to county roads and bridges and maintained our AAA bond rating," said Freeholder Sullivan.

"In the two years since voters placed Democrats in control of the Freeholder Board, we have cut the county's portion of property taxes both years. Property taxes actually increased in the two prior years, when Republicans controlled the board," he said.

Union County is one of only four counties with the AAA bond rating, and is the only urban county with such an achievement, a campaign spokesman noted.

The Democratic Freeholder Board also made important investments transportation, education, and on parks and open space that contribute to the quality of life for county residents.

The Access 2000 program developed by this Freeholder Board will provide matching grants to every school district in Union County to ensure that by the year 2000, every classroom in the county has a computer and Internet access, and every teacher has training in computers and technology.

"Our investment of more than $3 million in grants to districts will pay out in the coming years with a highly educated workforce and with children better prepared for higher education and better jobs," said Freeholder Ruotolo.

The candidates also noted that the Freeholder board also made a strong commitment to recreation, parks, open space and athletics in 1998. Through its "Project Pocket" parks grant program, the board provided the 21 municipalities of Union County with a total of $1.7 million in matching grants to improve town parks and athletic fields and preserve open space.

The board is also near completion of a year-long project to bring all county playgrounds up to modern safety standards with a $1 million investment.

It also approved the purchase of a 14-acre plot of land on the Union-Elizabeth border to ensure that it stays open and undeveloped in that densely populated area.

The board also approved more than $20 million in repairs to county roads and bridges.

The candidates noted in a joint statement that through the board's lobbying efforts, the county received more than $30 million in federal funds to develop a light rail system linking the eastern and western parts of the county and someday connecting residents to Newark International Airport, Port Elizabeth and the stores at Exit 13A on the New Jersey Turnpike.

It also ordered a study of the North Avenue Corridor, the most important east-west link in the county, to improve traffic flow.

"Services to senior citizens also are a top priority for this board," said Freeholder Mingo, liaison to the county's advisory council on aging. "We provide these services to help ensure that seniors can live healthy, independent lives in the home of their choice."

This year, the freeholders developed a hospice program that will serve house-bound or terminally ill seniors in their homes.

Also Union County Sheriff's officers are now transporting prisoners from municipalities to the county court in Elizabeth in pilot sites around the county so local police are patrolling the streets, not ferrying prisoners.

The Democratic candidates noted the board's effort on taking on welfare dependence. Through a $5 million federal grant, it is providing the longest-term welfare recipients with job training, day care and transportation assistance to help ease them become independent, productive citizens.

The campaign spokesman also noted that the board invested in a welfare fraud program to catch those who would steal money intended for children and families.

Gail Iammatteo Points Out Increasing Value of SP Homes

SCOTCH PLAINS — "When you're in the crucial hours of a political campaign and you're also moving to a beautiful new home, both the campaign and the new home have to be worth it," said Gail Iammatteo, Republican candidate for Scotch Plains Township Council, who serves as Deputy Director of the New Jersey Real Estate Commission.

Ms. Iammatteo pointed out that her experience in selling her first Scotch Plains home reflected the September 8 Star-Ledger article, "Property Sales Signal New Boom for Home Owners."

Statistics place Scotch Plains as second only to Summit in Union County with regard to the increased value of its average home sale over the last five years, the candidate noted.

"The average home in Scotch Plains increased in value by $39,000 over the last five years," she stated. "Over the course of those five years, taxes on that average home totaled $29,250. Thus, the average homeowner got to live in that home and come out ahead by $10,000."

"For the record, by the way, only 17 percent of your tax dollar goes towards municipal taxes, with the remaining 83 percent going to school and county government taxes," she added.

Ms. Iammatteo pointed out that her reasons for moving within the township parallel her reasons for running for Township Council.

"As a long-term resident, I am proud of the quality of life that Republican leadership has built with the help of its many volunteers," she explained.

"After many years of my own as a volunteer — as a member of the Cultural Arts Committee, as a member and currently Chairwoman of the Board of Adjustment, I would like the opportunity to continue my service to the Township of Scotch Plains as a member of its Council.

"In the recent Labor Day weather emergency, as always, we could count on our many volunteer emergency squad and fire department members, who donated their time that week and many at the sacrifice of paychecks and personal agendas," Ms. Iammatteo said.

"It's hard to believe that in this day and age of soaring waste disposal costs that our Republican leadership can still manage to provide for the pick-up of household and yard items in the many programs offering residents the opportunity to keep their homes clean and free of environmental debris.

"These programs include the Annual Spring Clean - up, the pick up of leaves and gum balls in the spring, the pick up of leaves and branches in the fall and the bimonthly pick up of recyclables. Also through a shared services program, we can utilize the Fanwood recycling center," commented Ms. Iammatteo, who has seen an increasing array of these services throughout her 23 years in Scotch Plains.

"And they have done this by maintaining a tax rate that is consistently among the lowest in Union County," the candidate observed.

"Senior needs are met through a variety of programs including free meals at Scotch Hills Country Club, free flu shots, the seniors bus service the family oriented Village Green Summer Series," Ms. Iammatteo stated.

"Programs that also benefit our families include Neighborhood Watch, the police bicycle patrol, the annual health fair, free monthly blood pressure testing, the Clean Communities program, free dog and cat rabies clinics and, last but not certainly not least, the many programs sponsored by the township's Recreation Department.

"When it came time for me to move," concluded Ms. Iammatteo, "like an increasing number of Scotch Plains residents, I moved right within Scotch Plains. And I'm making a commitment to maintaining the high quality of life, the many services to Scotch Plains residents, and the retention of property values that is the legacy of the current Township Council. That is why I am a candidate for Township Council."

Robert Johnston Stresses Commitment to Maintain Open Space Areas in Town

SCOTCH PLAINS —Since being elected into of office in 1993, Scotch Plains Councilman Robert Johnston said he has spent his many years in office working to preserve open space areas.

As he runs for reelection, Councilman Johnston has stressed his strong commitment to maintain open space as a recreational outlet for all Scotch Plains citizens.

“Preservation of open space in our town has always been a major concern among residents. I have worked closely with the Parks and Recreation Commission to make sure that we don’t lose our precious natural resources which beautify our community,” said Councilman Johnston.

Over the past year and half, Councilman Johnston and Deputy Mayor William F. McClintock have been working as a sub-committee with the Parks and Recreation Commission to develop a plan to repair and build baseball and soccer fields.

They have recently completed an agreement with Union County to use space in front of the Vo-Tech school for a baseball field which is expected to be in place by the spring of 1999.

This agreement comes under a five-year plan which calls for building five or more ball fields by the year 2003. These fields are expected to be a combination of baseball and soccer fields with at least two of them included for adult use, according to Councilman Johnston.

“We cannot say yet where all of these fields will be. We are currently examining some existing town property and may need to acquire additional property, if and when it becomes available,” said Councilman Johnston.

Both Councilmen Johnston and McClintock stressed that this is an “action-oriented game plan with a definitive end-result.”

“Goals have been defined; we plan to put words into action as we identify the available parcels to meet our objectives,” emphasized Councilman Johnston.

The Councilman and the Recreation Commission are presently developing a guideline that will serve as the basis to develop and maintain open spate in Scotch Plains.

“We will be utilizing our open-space and part resource inventories. Investigative studies have been conducted at selected parks to examine their potential and optimum use. Under the guidelines, we will review private property which may become available.

“We will also research grants, such as Green Acres funding and other programs that may help finance these projects,” the Councilman concluded.

GETTING OUT OF THE TRAP...Scotch Plains Township Councilman Robert Johnston, who seeking reelection, finds the sand trap on the ninth hole at Scotch Hills Country Club.

picture doesn’t get any better. Efforts by a national developer to construct a 116-unit town house complex on a 7.7 acre tract of land on the north side of Route 22—in a flood area no less—will add an estimated 60 additional students. This could touch off a multi-million dollar school construction project, driving property taxes to new heights.

“At an average cost of $9,000 per pupil, these 60 new students represent another costly bill to be paid for by the taxpayers that could be avoided if the 7.7-acre tract of land is set aside by the council as open space,” the candidate

CONCERNED FOR SCHOOLS...Scotch Plains Democratic candidates for Township Council, left to right, Franklin P. Donatelli, Tarquin Jay Bromley, and Geri Morgan Samuel, stand outside Coles Elementary School. The candidates say a lack of long-range planning by the all-Republican C Township Council is a primary cause for the present school overcrowding crisis.

IN NEED OF REPAIRS...Westfield Second Ward Town Council candidate Joe Stoner, shown here on a recent visit to Gumbert Field in his ward, advocates using some of the revenue from the sale of town assets to invest in improvements to Westfield’s parks and fields.

Improving and Maintaining Parks and Fields Should Unite Westfield, Mr. Stoner Says

WESTFIELD - Improving and maintaining the quality of Westfield’s parks and playing fields should be an issue that unites town residents, regardless of political affiliation, according to Second Ward Democratic Town Council candidate Joe Stoner.

“We have a magnificent collection of public parks in this town,” said Mr. Stoner, “and our residents are clearly concerned with not just maintaining them, but making them even better. They are particularly concerned about the condition and quality of the playing fields their children use.”

“It is very clear from discussions with the residents of my ward that they are worried about the apparent difficulty in making needed improvements to these facilities when, in their view, tax assessments and other town revenues would seem to provide adequate funds.”

“One comment I’ve heard frequently is, ‘With all the money we pay in taxes in this town, how come we can’t do a better job of fixing up the playing fields?’” Mr. Stoner stated.

“That’s a good question and a genuine concern, particularly when we see our playing fields in constant use by the various youth sports leagues and other civic organizations that abound here. Perhaps we have been penny wise and pound foolish with the monies in our town coffers,” said Mr. Stoner.

“In the very legitimate interest of conserving precious revenue and investing it for future use. We may be neglecting a very important use for our funds that enhances our town,” he continued.

“Westfield has two investment funds. One the town has typically used to invest budget surpluses to provide for times when we may face budget shortfalls. There is a second fund we have used to deposit revenues from the sale of town assets.”

“While that fund may have been originally intended to help finance special projects, we have lately been using it more like the other ‘rainy day’ fund. But I think we would be doing ourselves and our children a big favor by using more of those revenues for improving Westfield’s physical assets, our parks and fields.”

“Gumbert Field in my ward is just one example. Hundreds of children use Gumbert every week — spring, summer, and now fall - for organized baseball competition. And often we host teams from other towns there. We need to provide our children and our visitors with better facilities there.”

“But whether it’s Gumbert, Tamaques, Sycamore or Mindowaskin, we increase the value of all the real estate in Westfield by making these places more convenient, more comfortable and more beautiful for our citizens.”

“And we can do that with funds we have now and without endangering our future financial well-being. That’s why I think it makes sense to support the efforts of Mayor (Thomas C.) Jardim and the Town Council in carrying out these much needed improvements to our parks,” the candidate stated.

The candidate invites second ward residents to contact him with their ideas and suggestions at (908) 232-8334.

Councilman Goldman Committed to Town SID

“However, clearly all property taxpayers in Westfield benefit from a healthy and vibrant downtown. Therefore, I have been an advocate in the Town Council of general taxpayer support of the special improvement district in the form of capital projects,” Councilman Goldman stated.

A demonstration of the first of these projects, new lampposts, is scheduled to be put in place later this fall.

Councilman Goldman also noted that the ordinance enacted by the Town Council which created the SID contained a “sunset” provision providing that the district would cease to exist after December 31, 1999, unless renewed by the Council.

“As Chairman of the Town Council Laws and Rules Committee, I have urged that the Council act upon the sunset provision prior to the end of 1998 so that the Board of Directors of the Downtown Westfield Corporation, its executive director and volunteer committee members, can continue development of the long-term downtown improvement plan with the comfort that municipal government of Westfield remains supportive of its activities,” he explained.

“One disappointment with respect to downtown Westfield over the past two years has been the difficulty experienced by some of the independent ‘mom and pop’ stores. It is important to note, however, that the SID is not responsible for attracting more chain stores to Westfield.

“That is a function of market forces and deals struck by landlords. The SID has been providing assistance to dislocated businesses in locating new space,” Mr. Goldman concluded.

To the Voters of Westfield:

The campaign literature currently being distributed by Tom Jardim in his reelection campaign is misleading in several obvious respects.

He claims credit for the results of efforts of a lot of other people, having done nothing himself to bring the results about - or even worked for a contrary result!

Under the headline he claims that in just two short years he has accomplished a lot for Westfield. Let's look at those claims:

With the caption "Improving the lives of Westfield's Commuters," is a picture which includes the renovated train station. He had nothing to do with the train station project other than showing up for the ribbon-cutting last April.

This project started in 1993, before he even moved to town. I immediately enlisted the support of several Westfield groups and many individuals in the Westfield Historical Society, the Architectural Review Board, the Historic Preservation Commission and the Westfield MainStreet, all of whom worked with me in reviewing New Jersey Transit's proposals and persuading NJT that Westfield had to have a station that was aesthetically and historically acceptable as well as efficient for railroad operations and ADA compliance.

Commuters owe their thanks for the station improvements to this group, not Mr. Jardim. Incidentally, I appear in the picture, which was printed without my permission, and I am certainly not endorsing his candidacy.

The second picture caption is "Revitalizing our business districts." The effort to revitalize downtown started in 1991 under my predecessor, Mayor Richard Bagger, who, in typical Westfield tradition, recruited many residents to work on a downtown study commission. Many of the same, and many other Westfielders, then worked with me to secure MainStreet New Jersey status for the Town, and to do in-depth studies of creating a special improvement district and parking.

Neither Mr. Jardim nor any of his running-mates participated in any of this; their contribution was carping during the 1996 campaign that the SID should not cost taxpayers anything, a policy decision previously decided - and clearly articulated - by all of us who did work on revitalizing downtown and creating the SID.

Finally, Mr. Jardim appears in front of the writing for the Excellent Diner, saying "Turning an eyesore into an improved tax ratable". This is the same property he urged in his 1996 campaign, and again this year, should become a pocket park - maybe even a miniature golf course - which would totally remove the property from the tax rolls as well as cost hundreds of thousands of Westfield tax dollars in addition to the freeholder grant! That idea faded when the owners said they planned to build an office building. I hope they do, but it hasn't happened yet, and this site will not turn into an improved ratable until the building is up.

Political leaders are entitled to claim credit for what they do themselves, and what others do under their leadership - in both cases, where they will take the flak if things go bad.

Westfielders are entitled to accurate, not misleading, information when campaign literature is prepared. This piece fails dismally, and Westfielders are owed an apology and retraction.
